HITLER MOVES FOR RECONCILIATION WITH FRANCE

Election of Commons Speaker To-morrow Will Set Precedent

Resignation of Hon. George Black Is First Since Confederation; Choice Expected To Be Quickly Made

Several Names Are Mentioned

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 16. — Resignation of Hon. George Black as Speaker of the House of Commons has sent House officials whose duty it is to advise the government on matters of procedure into the rule books and supplementary reference books seeking a precedent. This is the first occasion since Confederation in which a Speaker of the Commons has resigned.

Officials at noon to-day took the view the election of a new Speaker need occupy only a few minutes before the formal opening of Parliament at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

Premier R. B. Bennett conferred with Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, this afternoon, and afterwards announced no final decisions had been made in the selection of Mr. Black's successor. Among the names those of advanced are J. T. Hackett, K.C., Stanstead, Que., J. L. Bourque, K.C., Dauphin, Man., and John A. Sullivan, K.C., St. Ann, Montreal.

Mr. Black, who represents the Yukon in the House, resigned yesterday because of ill-health.

KIDNAPPERS SHOT DOWN

Fred Barker and Mother, Sought for Bremer Abduction, Killed by Police

Associated Press

Oklawaha, Fla., Jan. 16.—Fred Barker, long sought for the kidnapping of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker, and his mother, "Ma" Barker, were shot to death to-day by United States Department of Justice agents after a withering, six-hour machine-gun battle.

Just after the furious battle had ended, the federal agents said two men and a woman had been killed, but a later check disclosed that only the Barkers were slain. Apparently, they were the only occupants of the house.

USED TEAR GAS

After a blazing battle with machine guns the agents resorted to tear gas. Two figures immediately made a break from the barricaded house and were promptly mowed down by the withering fire of the federal men.

The agents suffered no casualties.

The beautiful summer home, belonging to Carson Bradford, president of the Bloxsome Kennel Club at Miami, who had rented it two months ago to a man who gave his name as T. C. Blackburn, was shot full of holes.

To queries, an agent replied the machetes were "members of the Blackburn gang," sought in connection with the Bremer kidnapping.

The two barricaded themselves in the fine summer home on the bank of Lake Weir.

EARLY MORNING BATTLE

About 6.45 o'clock this morning the agents surrounded the place and ordered the occupants to surrender.

There was a blaze of fire from a machine gun in answer. The agents retired and set up their own machine guns and retaliated. A blazing battle started and continued, except for occasional lulls, until 11 o'clock. The agents resorted to tear gas in an effort to smoke out their quarry.

A negro cook employed in the house, rented under the name of T. C. Blackburn, was sent inside by the agents.

In a moment he returned with the cryptic news:

CATCH GANG OF KILLERS

Associated Press

La Salle, Ill., Jan. 16.—A running gun fight through three counties ended to-day with the capture of three bank robbers and the suicide of a fourth. Before they were rounded up the robbers had killed two men, a sheriff and a bank cashier, and wounded two others.

A thirteen-year-old boy hostage of the robbers was freed unharmed.

The robbers, who fled after an unsuccessful attempt to rob the Leonore State Bank of Leonore, Ill., were surrounded and captured in a field near McNabb, Ill., by a force of state, county and city police. They were taken to jail at Ottawa, Ill.

Slain by the bandits were Charles Bundy, fifty-four, bank cashier, and Sheriff Glenn Aultoe of Marshall County, who led his deputies against the robbers in their final stand in a field near McNabb.

One of the three captured bandits was reported seriously wounded.

ALBERTANS TO VOTE ON SOCIAL CREDIT

At Annual Convention United Farmers Learn Candidates Will Advocate Scheme in Provincial Election This Year

By SAM G. ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Calgary, Jan. 16.—Social credit within Alberta—aimed at ending interest and profit and establishing a basic dividend for every adult citizen, to-day definitely became an issue in Alberta's general election which must be held this year.

Debating the question for another three hours and with a vote still not reached, the twenty-seventh annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta heard William Aberhart, Calgary school principal, declare the social credit supporters would meet soon in Calgary and draw up a complete platform with the intention of contesting the election.

In speeches made by scores of delegates, social credit was supported, but the stumbling block came in what form the social credit plan would take. Mr. Aberhart, leader of the social credit supporters outside the ranks of the U.F.A., expounded his theory before the 400 delegates and 900 visitors and answered questions throughout the afternoon session.

ONTARIO GETS CHEAP MONEY

Treasury Notes Totaling $20,000,000 Sold at 2.25 Per Cent Interest

Toronto, Jan. 16.—The Ontario government has made a sale of treasury notes at the lowest rate in the province's history. According to an announcement by Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, a $20,000,000 issue has been disposed of at an interest rate of 2.25 per cent.

The notes are reported to be for a two-year term, and will take care of the 6 per cent issue of some $8,000,000 which will mature February 1, and will be used also to refund short term indebtedness and for certain capital expenditures.

Stating reports of an immediate bond issue, Premier Hepburn announced the financial condition of Ontario would be the topic of a special meeting of the provincial cabinet Thursday. The ministers, he said, would discuss methods to bring expenditures in line with revenues, and he hoped to avoid an increase in taxation.

New Witness Found For the Defence In Hauptmann Case

Associated Press

Flemington, N.J., Jan. 16.—Four experts to-day swelled the total identifications of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's handwriting in the Lindbergh ransom notes to eight and brought that phase of the state's murder case against Hauptmann near a close.

Meanwhile, the defence built up further insinuations against the dead broker Fisch in an attempt to lay the groundwork for its case in chief, for which it claims to have "an ace" testimony that Fisch sought to sell Lindbergh ransom money at a discount.

A new witness for Hauptmann, according to a statement by defence counsel to-day, will testify that Fisch and two other men offered to sell him the Lindbergh ransom money.

The prospective witness, Gustav Lukatis of New York, was brought to the attention of the defence by Henry Kuss, a private detective. Chief Counsel Edward J. Reilly asserted:

"We have Lukatis tucked away in New Jersey, and we will not take him off ice until it is time for him to testify."

TO OPEN NEW CHANNELS

Kuss, asserting he believes Lukatis holds "the key to the solution of the crime," said:

"His information will in all likelihood open channels of investigation which will lead to the apprehension of the real culprits in the Lindbergh kidnapping."

Isador Fisch, New York furrier and friend of Hauptmann, died at Leipzig, Germany, in March, 1934, and the Lindbergh case defendant has insisted the ransom money found in his possession was left with him by Fisch before he sailed.

Three members of the Fisch family have been brought from Germany to the United States in an attempt to refute this contention.

SNOW REMOVAL COSTS HEAVY

Widespread Fall Places Extra Work on Public Works Department

Heavy snowfall throughout the province has substantially increased costs of snow removal falling upon the provincial government this winter, Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, said this morning.

Some extra equipment has been secured, the minister said, and every effort is being made to keep trunk roads open.

Extra appropriation for this work was secured from the $1,000,000 public works loan from Ottawa.

Practically all of the funds received by the province of this loan have now been spent, Mr. MacPherson said. Although the money was spread over the different electoral districts, it assisted in some measure to provide extra work for the unemployed. Besides road improvements, much small bridge work was done, buildings repaired and other casual employment created.

WORLD COURT VOTE IN U.S.

Roosevelt Asks Senate to Ratify Adherence to System

Associated Press

Washington, Jan. 16.—In the interests of "world peace," President Roosevelt to-day asked the Senate in a special message to ratify United States adherence to the World Court.

The brief presidential message also urged that ratification "be given in such form as not to detract or to delay the objective of adherence."

This was interpreted in senatorial circles as representing opposition to any new reservations.

Mr. Roosevelt asserted that for years both Republicans and Democrats in party platforms had favored adherence.

ABANDON SHIP IN ATLANTIC

Canadian Press

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 16. — A wireless message picked up here to-day said the three-masted Newfoundland schooner Nellie B., bound from Harbor Buffett, Nfld., for Spain, had been abandoned at sea.

No hint of what mishap had befallen the 120-ton craft was contained in the brief message, but it was believed she had been disabled in one of the gales that have swept the Atlantic since she set out for Portugal eighteen days ago.

DOLLAR GAINS ON EXCHANGE

Canadian Currency Closes at $1.00 1-16 at New York To-day

The Canadian dollar closed at 1-16 per cent premium, against par at the close yesterday. The British pound finished ⅛ higher at $4.97⅛.

AT LONDON

London, Jan. 16—The United States dollar crossed its old parity mark of $4.86488 to the pound sterling here. Reached $4.85 and then eased to $4.86⅛ around noon to-day on buying chiefly from Paris operators.

Paris was reported still to be alarmed regarding shipments of gold to the United States. The French franc weakened to 74.64 to the pound sterling after opening at 74.18.

The dollar held a more stable course following yesterday's erratic movement.

Half an hour of trading saw the rate go to $4.89 11-16 to the pound from an opening figure of $4.87, as compared with an overnight rate of $4.88. Operators expressed belief from present indications that yesterday's tendency, when the dollar reached its strongest point since November 4, 1933, is likely to be reversed.

Idle on the market said the situation yesterday dominated speculators, who were frightened into operating without thoroughly consid-

British Commissioner Comes To Ottawa Post

Canadian Press

New York, Jan. 16 — Sir Francis Floud, K.B.E., newly-appointed British High Commissioner to Canada, arrived here this morning en route to Ottawa. The liner Olympic, bringing Sir Francis for his first visit to Canada, was held up for a day by stormy weather and as a consequence it was impossible for the High Commissioner to reach Ottawa before Parliament opens.

Accompanied by Lady Floud, their daughter, Miss Molly, and their son, Bernard, Sir Francis will leave for Montreal tonight. There he is expected to remain in Montreal for a day or two in order not to inconvenience Canadian officials during the opening of Parliament.

TO LOOK OVER SITUATION

Sir Francis, tall and spare, giving the impression of crisp and efficient elegance peculiar to British diplomatists, preferred not to discuss political or economic matters until he had an opportunity of looking over the situation in Canada.

Asked for a statement, he said: "I spent forty years in the British civil service and am glad now to have the opportunity of continuing my service, especially in Canada."

Bernard Floud will attend Trinity College, University of Toronto.

Miss Molly Floud lately took the degree of Associate at the Royal Academy of Music in London.

Sir Francis succeeds Sir William Clark, who was transferred to the post of British High Commissioner in South Africa.

GERMANY IN ABOUT-FACE AFTER VOTE

SNOW SQUALLS HIT VICTORIA

Colder Weather May Follow, as Zero Weather Moves South From Alaska

Victoria was treated this morning to a real blizzard, but without the biting winds which accompany one in colder climes. To-day's storm was the result of an ocean gale, which swept over Vancouver Island and the lower mainland during the night, it was stated this morning at the Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Hill.

Yesterday evening at midnight the streets and sidewalks were coated with ice and this morning residents awoke to find the ice turned into slush, melted by rain and light flurries of snow during the night. Then the sun came out, the sky cleared and there seemed prospects of a pleasant day. It was not long, however, before the wind sprang up from the southwest, bringing snow squalls in its wake. The Sooke Hills were covered with snow, and the gravel pits at Albert Head here a coat of white this morning.

MAY GET COLDER

The snow in Victoria, however, was melting as it fell, although in the higher levels it was piling up. As the storm moves farther south it is likely to cause colder weather, Napier Denison, meteorologist at Gonzales said to-day. It is extremely cold in Alaska and the Yukon, and while this cold usually moves to the prairies, Victoria is liable to feel a bit of it as it comes south.

There is snow as far south as southern Oregon, and California is experiencing heavy rains as far south

Germany's Next Foreign Political Objective, Now That Saar Is Returning, Is Reconciliation With France

Saar Transfer Expected March 1

Associated Press

Berlin, Jan. 16. — Germany's next foreign political objective, now that she is to have the Saar, is a reconciliation with France, it was learned to-day.

Reichschancellor Hitler made this plain in his broadcast yesterday on the plebiscite, and Paul Joseph Goebbels, his minister of propaganda, in addressing the German press conference.

"Perhaps we are at the threshold of an historical turning point in European politics," Goebbels asserted.

Newspapers and patriotic organizations were quick to take up this subject for which the propaganda ministry prepared the ground for weeks.

ROAD OPEN

Hans Oberlindober, leader of the German Great War Veterans, telegraphed Hitler, "The road is now clear for an honorable reconciliation with our neighbor people," meaning France.

Observers were quick to note the wide range between Hitler's statement in the book, "My Struggle," that "France is and will ever be the implacable mortal enemy of Germany," and his more recent assertion to the Reichstag last January 30 that "gone the days when it attempted to arbitrate, making stands in the way of a Franco-German understanding."

ABOUT-FACE SEEN

Under Hitler's dictatorship the German nation is executing an about-face in its attitude toward France, the regime with attacks on the "arch enemy," France.

To-day the whole vast propaganda apparatus of the National Socialist Party is devoted to showing to the German people that a reconciliation with the "arch enemy" is not only possible but desirable.

"We are passionately endeavoring to arrive at a reconciliation with France," Goebbels said 20,000 cheering Nazis at a rally November 23.

Train Hits Truck; Driver Gets Ride

Carl Henry Carried Twenty-five Yards on Engine After Body and Chassis of Car Separated at Tillicum Road Crossing

Carl Henry, "B" Street, Sooke, miraculously escaped death in an accident this morning when the truck he was driving was struck head-on by a C.N.R. freight train at the Tillicum Road crossing.

Mr. Henry was driving for McLean's Bakery and the truck was completely demolished as the crash separated the chassis from the body.

Mr. Henry's condition was reported as not serious at the St. Joseph's Hospital, where he is suffering from back and shoulder injuries.

How the driver escaped being killed was a mystery to the Sooke police. He was driving north on Tillicum Road and the train was bound from the city. The collision occurred as the truck was in the centre of the track at the crossing.

With the impact the body and the lower portion of the truck separated and Mr. Henry was thrown in the back portion of the truck body. The chassis was thrust into the ditch after being dragged about twelve yards and the body was carried on the front of the train for twenty-five yards before Mr. Henry fell off. Parts of the car were strewn all along the tracks.

Mr. Henry was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital in the C. and C. Ambulance where Dr. J. H. Moore attended him.

According to the police Mr. Henry stated he did not see the train and the firemen stated he did not see the truck. The accident happened just before 11.30 o'clock while it was snowing heavily. Constable Bate Sooke of the Sooke police attended the accident.

ESCAPE FROM SAN QUENTIN

Number of California Convicts Wound Warden

Associated Press

San Quentin, Cal., Jan. 16—An undetermined number of convicts broke from San Quentin prison to-day, kidnapped three members of the state prison board and its secretary and killed the veteran warden, James B. Holohan, with a blow from a gun.

Holohan was knocked unconscious and left in the rear of a prison building as the desperate prisoners sought to freedom.

Members of the board, in session at the prison, had just gone to the warden's home for lunch when the desperate convicts jumped out from a hiding place within the ground, pounced on the officials and dashed out of the gates in the official automobile.

Hitler Moves For Reconciliation With France

Rudolf Hess, minister without portfolio, is trying to come to an understanding with the war veterans of France.

Germany's abstention of the Saar's vote continued to-day.

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Geneva, Jan. 16.—Reports in the League of Nations indicated to-day the Saar basin territory probably will be transferred out of the jurisdiction of the League to Germany March 1, following the Nazis' sweeping victory in last Sunday's plebiscite.

Despite the cancellation of a council meeting to-day amid rumors France and Germany were disputing conditions for the date of transfer, experts said they saw every reason to believe an accord would be reached and a council meeting as a result was likely to-morrow.

A French spokesman said in reality an agreement already had been achieved by which the transfer would take place March 1; a German negotiator, however, told the Associated Press the accord had not been completed late this afternoon although an agreement seemed probable.

FEBRUARY 15 ARGUED

Germany, it was learned, has been holding out for February 15 as the date on which she should receive the Saar basin.

The thorny problem of armament of the Saar, it was said, will probably be overcome by a resolution saying the Saar is to be annexed to Germany under the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles.

COMMISSION RETURNS

The League's plebiscite commission arrived from Saarbruecken on a special train, travelling in the same car which contained the official results of the plebiscite. The public was not allowed on the platform.

"The plebiscite was a great victory for the League of Nations, which directed the voting with perfect neutrality," Miss Sarah Wambaugh, United States member, said. "It proved that plebiscites are best handled by international organizations like the League of Nations."

Miss Wambaugh said the train had been guarded throughout its trip, but that no incidents had occurred.

The commission will make a formal report to the Council. The ballots may be burned at a paper factory at Vernitz, near Geneva, or may be remade into paper which possibly would be sold to Germany.

POLICE OCCUPY BUILDING

Saarbruecken, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 16.—Police to-day forced the Socialists out of their headquarters here and occupied the building. Unconfirmed rumors said five persons had been killed and several injured in various parts of the Saar basin territory.

Six Communists were reported by their friends to have been arrested in Saarbruecken.

In Saarbruecken itself, however, no acts of violence were apparent.

Practically the entire general staff of the Common Front, the anti-Nazi organization, including several dissident catholics, has taken up residence in France. Some of the staff members come back in the daytime, but return to France each night to sleep.

NEWSPAPERS DISAPPEAR

Since the sweeping Nazi victory in the Plebiscite Sunday, anti-Hitler newspapers have vanished from the streets.

Common Front sympathizers wearing red vests paraded in Saarbruecken this afternoon without interference.

Nazi newspapers to-day demanded the German government be permitted to take care of the question of opposition to the Nazis, claiming it was not a question for the League of Nations to settle.

Canadian Press

London, Jan. 16.—London newspapers to-day expressed the hope that relief for the European situation provided by the Saar verdict will not be marred by agitation of barbaric measures towards Saar minorities.

The Daily News Herald characterized the result as the beginning "of terror and insults."

"The return of the Saar by Germany should be hailed as closing a rankling sore which has kept alive resentment and delayed the healing processes of European appeasement," declared The Daily Telegraph in an article representative of general editorial opinion.

The News-Chronicle commented that Chancellor Adolf Hitler's broadcast to the Saar "justifies at least the hope that the Saar plebiscite may mark not only the ending of the old controversy, but the beginning of a newer and brighter chapter in Franco-German relations."

MAY GROW HARDER

The Daily Express, Lord Beaverbrook's newspaper, on the other hand, said the Saar triumph was likely to harden Hitler.

The Daily Mail said: "The overwhelming vote of the Saar for a return to Germany is one of the most impressive events of our time. Of it may be said as Goethe, famous German literary pillar, declared of the victory of the French revolution at Valmy—that it marks the birth of a new era in Europe."

FRENCH OPINIONS

Paris, Jan. 16.—Paris newspapers commented as follows on the result of the Saar plebiscite:

Echo de Paris: "There is nothing now to oppose reconstitution of a German unity, and a person must be very naive to believe that there will not be Anschluss (Austro-German union).

Le Journal: "Never was a laboratory experiment of the German soul carried out under more satisfactory conditions. The result speaks for itself."

Le Matin: "French-German settlement demands first a serious reawakening of the French spirit. We must remember that no foreign entente is worth anything without existence in Paris first of a will and of continued action."

Le Petit Parisien: "We have not seen such delirious delight since the armistice. One feels the love for all that is military, and warlike, and mystic, all that calls for domination and force. For the moment that symbolizes Hitler."

NO RUSH YET

Forbach, France, Jan. 16. — Refugees' destinations and kitchens in half a dozen French frontier towns were empty to-day as Saar objectors to Adolf Hitler showed a stubborn reluctance to leave the homeland.

CLYDE BEATTY

Rochester, Ind., Jan. 16.—Clyde Beatty, wild animal trainer, was suffering from serious injuries to-day as the result of an attack made on him yesterday by a recently imported lion at circus winter quarters here.

The beast knocked Beatty across a forty-foot training arena. The trainer suffered fractures of several ribs and was cut and bruised badly.

When the lion, called Sampson, struck him, Beatty fought the animal with a straight backed chair until attendants succeeded in rescuing him. Beatty was attempting to teach the lion a few simple tricks preparatory to placing him in an act with thirty-five lions and tigers when the attack was made.

Victorians learned of many of the exploits of Clyde Beatty as a circus animal trainer when The Times carried a series of graphically written articles on his career a number of months ago.

against status quo voters which would send the latter streaming into France, investigated reports of border conflicts yesterday evening, only to find nobody knew anything about them.

Likewise rumors that Nazis in the Saar were searching homes of their suspected enemies lacked confirmation.

Every road from the Saar was patrolled by squads of mobile guards, but their only activity thus far has been to seize three French men, taken papers of identification, and return them to the Saar.

TEN LISTED

An influx, if any, is expected by officials on the eve of whatever date the League fixes for formal transfer of the Saar to Germany. Estimates by them of probable refugees vary from 10,000 to 40,000 persons, most of whom are expected to rush across the frontier in a last-minute jam.

Immediately a coroner's inquest was called and the agents kept out all except eye-witnesses.

The slain woman was about sixty years old and the man between thirty and thirty-five.

NARROW ESCAPE

Mrs. E. E. Weatherby, who has a summer cottage across the street from that occupied by the gangsters, told a graphic story of narrowly escaping death in the exchange of blazing machine guns.

Her home was directly in the line of fire from where the bandits had set up a machine gun. A number of bullets tore through her house and she was forced to exclude herself in the bathroom to escape being shot down.

She dashed out of the bath door and several shots fanned her head, she declared, as she kept putting distance between herself and the battle.

The agents said they had fired 1,500 rounds of ammunition into the house.

SLAIN IDENTIFIED

Washington, Jan. 16.—The U.S. Department of Justice identified three killed to-day by federal agents in a machine-gun battle at Oklawaha, Fla., as the father, Fred Barker, and his mother, known as "Ma."

Both were wanted for the abduction of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul, Minn., banker, a year ago to-morrow. The reports to the department from the battleground said the two Barkers were the only ones who took part in the encounter with the federal agents.

None of the federal agents who surrounded the house in Oklawaha was killed or injured.

When "Ma" Barker fell, the department said, she was holding a machine gun in her hand and part of the drum of cartridges had been exhausted.

RANSOM WAS $100,000

Bremer was kidnapped January 17, 1934. Taken from St. Paul, he was released February 7 near Rochester, Minn., after the payment of $100,000 ransom.

Associated Press

Chicago, Jan. 16.—The Bureau of American to-day said that Arthur (Doc) Barker, brother of the slain Fred Barker, has been in federal custody here for a week. At the division of investigation offices, however, officials denied the story.

New Witness Found For the Defence in Hauptmann Case

NAMES NOT YET GIVEN

Hines said that neither he nor Lonergan was ready to reveal the names of the persons they charge were associated with Fisch in the attempted sale of the ransom money.

"It would ruin the case for us to give away all the facts now," said Hines.

"I expect, however, that with my co-operation from the police their names will become known in quick order. I understand they are within an hour's drive from New York City."

Bruno Cassidy and Sowder, those who identified Hauptmann's handwriting to-day were Albert D. Osborn of New York, one of another expert previously on the stand, and T. Clark Milburn of Los Angeles, who was a witness in the Wendle Reith Judd murder case.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

During to-day's evidence at the trial the defence bore down in cross-examination on the possibility that a clever forgeryman had imitated Hauptmann's hand in the notes.

Two of the experts who identified Hauptmann's handwriting to-day were Harry E. Cassidy of Richmond, Va., and Wilmer T. Souder of the United States Treasury Department.

"Let me ask you this," C. Lloyd Fisher of the defence staff cross-examined Cassidy, "assuming someone, some person had a specimen of the true writing of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, with all its eccentricities, misspelling, peculiarities, its failure to cross 't's' and whatnot, would it in your opinion be a difficult matter for the person who had that writing to copy Hauptmann's writing in such a way that it would be deceptive even to you experts?"

"I would say," said Cassidy, "that for a small amount of writing and a very expert imitator or counterfeiter or forger, he might be able to prepare one letter."

"Well, now—"

"I mean a short letter."

After argument between counsel as to how long his answer should be, the expert said:

"When you talk about fourteen letters, it looks like to me it would be almost an impossible task."

The defence line, if successful, would lay the ground for a shift of guilt from Hauptmann to the late Isador Fisch.

START OF SESSION

As the hour set for the beginning of to-day's session of the trial was reached Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, followed by his faithful negro chauffeur, entered the court room a here minute before Hauptmann was led in. A barrage of flashlight cameras shots greeted the defendant and he blinked nervously at the bright glare.

The jury came into the courtroom five minutes before court convened.

Col. Lindbergh did not arrive until after the court had been called to order and the jury had been polled. Col. Henry Breckinridge, his friend and legal adviser, was with him.

MOTION FAILS

George E. Large of the defence counsel opened with a motion:

"I desire to move to strike out the testimony of yesterday's last witness—the man who made baby thumbguards.

"He said the thumbguard he examined was of mono-metal and that he was the manufacturer of it.

"I submit that the witness is not qualified. He is not an expert of any kind.

"All he knew about the quality of the metal is that which he learned by wearing a ring made from it."

"Is this motion opposed?" asked Justice Trenchard.

"Of course we opposed it," said Attorney-General David T. Wilentz.

"The motion is denied," the judge ruled.

HAS SOUTHERN DRAWL

Assistant Attorney Joseph Lanigan then began the direct examination of Cassidy.

The witness, talking with a broad southern drawl, said he had testified in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, West Virginia and Kentucky.

His examination, he said had convinced him that all fourteen ransom notes were written by the one person.

"The same person who wrote the request writings and the standard writings of those ransom notes," Cassidy declared.

Q. Who wrote those ransom notes?

A. If Mr. Hauptmann wrote the standard writings, he also wrote the ransom notes.

He began an explanation of his findings and enumerated errors in spelling which he was "inclined to attribute to the German influence."

BY SAME PERSON

"All the notes," Cassidy said, "were written by the same person."

"I want to be emphatic," drawled the Virginian, "but I don't want to be monotonous. This case is too important, but I wouldn't hesitate to say that the ransom notes and the Hauptmann writings were done by the same person."

The authority spoke briefly on the defence contention that someone may have imitated Hauptmann's writing in penning the ransom notes.

"The possibility is so improbable as to be absolutely negligible. That is my honest opinion," he said.

C. Lloyd Fisher, assistant defence counsel, took the witness for cross-examination.

A.—Did you see any of the request writings being written?

A.—No, sir.

Q.—When would you say was the best time to take a handwriting specimen from a subject?

TOO MANY

Q.—Do you think the handwriting might have been copied on the ransom notes?

A.—If a very expert imitator tried, he might be able to copy some, but, you with, Mr. Fisher, fourteen letters! That's too many.

Fisher pounced away to have the expert agree that a clever forgeryman with a specimen of Hauptmann's writing and misspelling, could imitate it.

The witness insisted it would be been virtually impossible to have produced the ransom notes in that way.

Fisher then wanted to know if one handwriting specimen would not be enough for a clever forgeryman to work on.

"One will make a river if it is big enough," drawled the witness.

The court rocked with laughter.

Q.—Were you present when the defendant made those request writings?

A.—I wasn't present when Washington crossed the Delaware, but I got a pretty good idea he got over to the Jersey side.

More laughter echoed in the courtroom.

"You don't know," Fisher hinted, "how Hauptmann wrote the request writings—whether or not words were dictated to him misspelled?"

A.—I have to go on faith. I don't think all those officers would do a trick like that.

The defence counsel did not relinquish the point.

Q.—You don't know, do you, if such things were done in the request writings?

A.—If you can prove it, it certainly will help your case, Mr. Fisher.

WITNESS FROM WASHINGTON

Wilmer Souder, a member of the federal bureau of standards, Department of Commerce at Washington, was then called.

Lanigan questioned him.

The witness identified all the ransom notes.

Q.—You have examined all of them?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—I show you the genuine writing of Hauptmann—the automobile licenses. Have you examined them?

A.—Yes, I have.

Q.—As a result of your examination of these three sets of documents—the request writings, the licenses and the ransom notes—what is your conclusion?

A.—The same person wrote all three sets.

"If Mr. Hauptmann wrote the request writings and the admitted writings," the mild-mannered federal expert said, "he also wrote the ransom documents."

Q.—All of them?

A.—All of them.

Grigsby, Souder gave a discussion on each of the peculiarities and characteristics which had led him to link Hauptmann to the ransom note writer.

"Take the witness," said Lanigan.

POSITIVE IDENTIFICATION

Frederick A. Pope cross-examined.

Q. In making the examination of the so-called ransom notes, the standard writing and the request writing, you found various discrepancies?

A. I found no discrepancies that were not overcome by positive identification.

Dr. Souder defined discrepancy as "absolute and positive differences which cannot be reconciled."

"I found none," he declared with conviction.

Q. How many documents have you examined in connection with the case?

A. Eight thousand.

Q. Eight thousand?

A. And more.

Q. And among the thousands you have examined those that were produced here are the only ones with evidence of similarity with the ransom note handwritings?

A. Yes, not the only ones.

Q. Then there were other writers who wrote in this manner?

WERE DISCARDED

A. I found some "a's" bearing similarity to the "a's" of these notes; some "b's" and some "c's," but after consideration they were all discarded.

Methodically Pope went over the government expert's charts, pointing out letters and repeatedly urging the witness to admit there was a "marked difference" between some of the characters.

Souder, who refused to be hurried in his answers, said some differences were apparent, but added the differences were not marked because if they were, the letters would be inconsistent, which was not the case, in his opinion.

Q. Why didn't you use the word "please" out of the request writings to compare with the word in the ransom note?

A. I didn't think it necessary.

Q. Wasn't it because it was different in the request writings?

A. I don't think so.

New York, Jan. 16—The appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn, to-day ordered James M. Fawcett, former counsel to Bruno Richard Hauptmann, to bring to court Friday all papers and documents in his possession that pertain to the Hauptmann case with a view to determining whether they are necessary to the defence.

TESTIMONY FROM GERMANY

They are state rebuttal witnesses brought to shatter the "Fisch myth" of Hauptmann's defence.

Attorney-General David T. Wilentz announced the change in plans of the prosecution to keep the witnesses in New York state until they were needed.

He said the witnesses—a brother and two sisters of the late Isador and the nurse—would be kept at a hotel in Trenton and that no one would be permitted to see or talk with them.

It was Isador Fisch, says Hauptmann, who went to Germany to die, and left with him a shoe-box containing more than $14,000 in ransom bills—the Lindbergh bills, which were found at Hauptmann's home in the Bronx.

Albertans To Vote On Social Credit

NUMEROUS CANDIDATES

Delegates counted an involved election with Liberals, Conservatives, Labor, Independents, Social Credit nominees and the government party of the United Farmers of Alberta in the battle.

Promising co-operation with every candidate who declared in favor of social credit no matter what his position, Mr. Aberhart said a social credit convention would be held. He hoped the U.F.A. would remain intact as an organization, but added:

"This battle (of social credit) is not going to be fought out in any convention, but at the balloting polls."

THREE CHIEF PROPOSALS

Expounding his theory, which he declared was the Douglas Social Credit Scheme applied to Alberta, Mr. Aberhart said it was based on three main principles:

1. A monthly basic dividend of $25 in value for every adult in the province.

2. "Just prices" of commodities established by a commission.

3. The principle of continuous flow of credit.

FOR ALL CITIZENS

Detailing the proposed monthly basic dividend, Mr. Aberhart said it would be paid to all persons whether they worked or not because it was founded on the principle the state must guarantee food, clothing and shelter. Even the present U.F.A. government could put such a law on the statute books and it would be within its power, he said.

The basic dividend would be provided by the government, the "state credit house," which would take its share of the "price spread" to guarantee the dividend. Unearned increment would be used also. He gave an example of a shoe factory producing shoes selling at $4, with $1 going for material and production, $1 for commissions in paying for services and $2 to pay for the machine producing them. When the machine was paid for, the practice now was to make the $2 a profit. The state would take its share of this, possibly all of it, he said.

Money was not essential. The social credit government could issue saving certificates as done by present governments even though they might go under a different name. Alberta was wealthy enough to put the scheme in operation and earning power of the individual would not be hampered. "There would be plenty of money for those who want to pay an income tax," he said.

PRICE FIXING

The "just price" would be set by a commission as a fair price to be paid by the consumer and still give the producer a fair return. "The commission would cut down the spread between the user and the stock," he remarked. He quoted figures to show the maximum amount could be derived through a 2 per cent tax on the plant—either in farm or factory—and 1 per cent on land.

FLOW OF CREDIT

The proposed continuous flow of credit works in backward through supposing the present basis of the producer extended the credit to the principle of the state credit house. The producer would be given credit and he would distribute it through wages and materials. The consumer would have the basic dividend to buy the goods and his wages would be available also. Farmers would be insured against hail or other losses. The basic dividend would balance the purchasing power, he said.

Interest charges on debts outside the province would be eliminated through liquidation of the debt, he said. It depended on the support of the people how fast this could be done. If loans were again required and outside financiers still wanted interest, the government could refuse to pay a high rate and gradually eliminate need of loans.

HOSPITAL IS OVERCROWDED

Vancouver General in Such Condition Patients Die in Corridors

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 16.—The Vancouver General Hospital is so overcrowded that some patients are denied even partial privacy when they are dying and are forced to die in public corridors, Dr. A. K. Haywood, general superintendent, said in an address to members of the Board of Trade.

The superintendent declared that, while it was recognized that except in emergencies, a hospital should not run at more than 75 per cent of its capacity, the main building accommodation was running from 90 to 95 per cent of the general wards.

He said it was so seriously overcrowded that if the recent train wreck at Dundas, Ontario, had taken place near Vancouver there would have been no beds for the injured and dying.

He said government grants and receipts from private patients had decreased, while the total number of patients had risen alarmingly. He described inadequate equipment and accommodation and general need for repairs.

EXCISE DUTIES REVENUE GROWS

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—Continuing the year's trend, the Dominion Government's revenue in the month of December last showed an increase over the same month in 1933. Income tax revenues showed a decrease, but the increases in customs and excise revenues more than balanced this.

The net increase of total receipts from customs and excise taxes was $849,520 from December, 1933, to $19,150,371 in December, 1934. Decreases were recorded under the headings of customs duties, excise taxes and sundry collections, but a jump of $652,945 in excise duties kept the month's receipts in advance of those for the same month the previous year.

For the first nine months of the fiscal year ended December 31, total customs and excise revenue was $175,827,874, an increase of $32,331,097 over the figure for the corresponding period in the previous year, which was $143,506,677.

TREE EXPERT AT METCHOSIN

Metchosin, Jan. 16.—The monthly meeting of the horticultural section of the Metchosin District Community Club was held Monday evening when an instructive address was given by E. W. White of the Department of Agriculture, on "Tree Planting and Pruning." The chair was occupied by Charles E. Whitmey-Griffiths, who referred to the loss sustained by the club in the death of the secretary, Duke Taylor, and spoke of his sterling qualities and usefulness in the district. Tribute was paid to his memory by the assembly standing in silence. Major Meredith-Jones also spoke of Mr. Taylor's valuable services and worthy character. At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. White was thanked for his lecture. In replying, Mr. White announced that later in the season he would give practical demonstrations of pruning in the various orchards in the district.

The annual meeting of the Metchosin Hall was held on Monday evening last, Rev. H. M. Bolton occupying the chair. Minutes of the previous annual meeting were read and the financial statement presented by the secretary, W. C. Milsted. These were adopted and passed. Officers elected for the year were: R. Walker, J. Bell and Ray Gray; auditor, F. P. Prudd. A vote of thanks was tendered by H. E. Bell to the retiring committee for services during the year.

AUSTRIANS WATCH NAZIS

Government Moves to Prevent Outbreak Following Vote in Saar

Associated Press

Vienna, Jan. 16.—Austria showed nervousness and apprehension to-day over the preponderant Nazi vote in the Saar plebiscite. The decisive victory there for Reichsführer Hitler was interpreted in Vienna as presaging an early renewal of Nazi activities in Austria.

The dictatorial Fascist government took widespread measures to suppress any possible demonstration in favor of Germany. Squads of policemen were sent to the University of Vienna and stationed throughout its buildings yesterday. The government refused to allow Austrian newspapers to issue extra editions regarding the plebiscite results.

Empty Box-car Mystery Solved

Grand Forks Railwayman Sealed Up Wrong One, and It Traveled 500 Miles With Nothing in It.

Victoria's mystery of the empty freight car which has baffled the best sleuths on wholesale row for some time has been solved.

About a week ago a freight car, allegedly containing potatoes, traveled all the way from Grand Forks, B.C., was specially sealed and heated en route, and had been shipped across on a train ferry. When opened up here it was empty.

Wholesalers conjured up visions of some new form of wholesale potato robbery, but the mystery was solved to-day. It began on New Year's Eve. One of the Grand Forks railway men sealed up the wrong car. Bills of lading were made out for the empty car and it traveled over 500 miles.

This incident is believed unique in Canadian railway history.

Boston Not to See "Within the Gates"

Associated Press

Boston, Jan. 16.—The shades of "Strange Interlude" paraded through Boston to-day when Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield requested that Sean O'Casey's "Within the Gates" be held from production on the Shubert Theatre stage here Monday evening.

The mayor said that as a result of reading the play "Within the Gates," by O'Casey and protests against its being permitted to show in Boston by three churchmen he had requested the proprietor of the Shubert Theatre not to allow the show to be presented.

CHINESE REDS MEET TROOPS

Communist Hordes Moving Westward Encounter Chiang's Forces

Associated Press

Shanghai, Jan. 16. — Forty thousand Communists, who blazed a trail of pillage and murder halfway across China after their expulsion from Kiangsi province, were encountering the first real obstacle in their westward migration to-day.

Near the border of Szechuan province they faced crack divisions of government troops posted by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to prevent the junction of these reds with the Communist hordes in southeast Szechuan.

After tramping their crimson path across China, the Communists have been milling throughout northwestern Kweichow and western Hunan provinces.

The situation was chaotic in southern Anhwei, where Communists early in December publicly beheaded Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stam, young U.S. missionaries. Refugees continued to pour into Wuhu with stories of new atrocities by the band that murdered the Stams. The Reds are estimated to number 5,000.

The refugees say conditions in the terrorized districts of southern Anhwei are the worst since the Taiping rebellion, colossal uprising in the middle of the last century, which supposedly engulfed 60,000,000 Asiatics in death or misery.

By KNUT EKBLAD
Associated Press Correspondent

Kweihua, Szetsuan Province, China, Jan. 16.—A bold modern Marco Polo who penetrated into China's far northwest province, Sinkiang, to find Soviet Russia and her Red armies dominant there, turned to the south and west to-day in quest of new adventures.

Peter Orlandini, Italian physician whose attempt to follow the ancient caravan route across the Asian highlands to his home city of Venice was halted by the hostility of Sinkiang military authorities, left Peiping yesterday to explore Kiangsi, Hunan, Kweichow and Szechuen provinces.

The prolonged period of misgovernment and religious warfare in that far-away frontier territory during recent years has laid waste entire villages and wiped out their inhabitants, he said. Vast regions were impoverished, the Italian asserted, with the Mohammedans, who make up the bulk of the population, the heaviest sufferers.

AUTHORITY EXTENDED

Thanks to military assistance from Soviet Russia, the provincial governor, General Sheng Shih-tsai, has extended his authority from Northern Sinkiang over the entire province, Dr. Orlandini declared.

In 1934, he said, Sheng was in desperate straits when Mohammedan forces assaulted his last important stronghold, Urumchi, capital of the province.

A force of 5,000 Russian troops and ten airplanes were sent across the frontier to assist in re-establishing the authority of the provincial government, the Italian traveler said, the Mohammedans were quickly dispersed and General Ma fled across the frontier into Russia, where he was interned.

ANNUAL VESTRY MEETING HELD

Bishop of Columbia Expresses Appreciation; Warden Honored

Rt. Rev. C. de V. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, expressed sincere thanks to the parishioners of Christ Church Cathedral at the annual vestry meeting yesterday evening for their support and interest during the year.

The church staff, the wardens and the members generally had lived up to the high standard which had characterized the congregation for the last seventy years, the Bishop said.

He made particular reference to the musical activities of the diocese. The year had been a special one in a musical way by reason of the presentation of "The Messiah."

He concluded with a message of inspiration to carry on the good work.

During the evening J. H. Hinton, who has just completed ten years' continuous service as church warden, was honored. An illuminated address was presented to him by the Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, who presided.

DEAN'S TRIBUTE

Dean Quainton spoke of Mr. Hinton's splendid services during his term, which had marked the closing of the old and the opening of the new church. It was a vital period in the history of the congregation and of great importance in the history of the cathedral.

The theme for the address was made of wood from the old cathedral.

In reply, Mr. Hinton expressed his thanks and said he had always experienced fine relationships with all those connected with the church.

Encouraging reports on activities and finances were presented to the meeting.

All parish expenses and diocesan apportionments and assessments were met in full the financial statement showed. It reflected a liberal response to the work of the church on the part of those connected with the parish.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

The work of Charles Hanley and George Carter, wardens during the last year, was praised by Dean Quainton.

Mr. Hanley was again named as rector's warden and Mr. Carter as People' warden for the coming year.

CARETAKER RESCUED

Vancouver, Jan. 16 (Canadian Press) —J. Green, caretaker of the Water Street Mission, was rescued by firemen yesterday after he had been partly overcome by smoke from fire which broke out in the mission and caused considerable damage. Firemen answered a call turned in by a patrolman and found Green after breaking down two doors into the building. The caretaker had apparently been asleep when the fire broke out. Several stores on the ground floor of the building suffered water damage.

URGES STUDY OF DICTATORSHIPS

A. T. Polyzoides, New York Greek Editor, Speaks in Vancouver

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 16.—Greatest casualty of the Great War was democracy itself, Adamantios T. Polyzoides, Greek-born New York journalist, declared in addressing members of the Vancouver Canadian Club yesterday.

He said the spirit of democracy had been slowly submerged during the days when nations were fighting for their very existence, and that the spirit had failed to revive since the war, being replaced by dictatorships.

Mr. Polyzoides declared these dictatorial movements must be studied with an objective and unprejudiced mind in order that their value might be recognized. He said a new war would not be started from the armed dictatorships of Europe, but rather from the Far East.

He declared in conclusion that democracy was the principle by which the civilization of to-day would succeed.

Hear Report of Saanich Police

During 1934 the Saanich police department attended 804 complaints, none of which included any major crime, according to the annual report presented to the police commission yesterday evening.

The report was given by Chief Allan Rankin. It stated the department had collected $5,751.36 in fines and other levies during the year. There was eighty-five court cases, six persons sent to jail, sixty-one convictions and fifty-six motor accidents.

The work of the department was warmly praised by members of the commission.

LADDER AT HAUPTMANN TRIAL

The ladder from which the baby carrying Baby Charles A. Lindbergh fell to his death, was the centre of a little battle that raged at the Bruno Hauptmann trial at Flemington, N.J., a few days ago, as the defense fought to exclude it from admission as evidence, maintaining that as it had been taken apart and put together again, it might not be the original. The judge allowed it to be marked for identification, but as yet has not ruled whether it will be admitted as evidence. It is pictured above as it was taken in evidence into court. HITLER'S GREAT OPPORTUNITY

SEVERAL MONTHS AGO ADOLF HITler's book, "My Struggle," was published and in it he had written, among other highly-belligerent passages, the following: "France is and will ever be the inexorable mortal enemy of Germany." Yesterday the same Adolf Hitler, in a broadcast, made it quite clear to the German people and to the world at large that now the Saar problem has been disposed of Germany's next foreign political objective will be a reconciliation with France. This statement was followed up by another, to the press, from Minister of Propaganda Goebbels, who said: "Perhaps we are at the threshold of an historical turning point in European politics." A telegram to Hitler from the head of the German Great War Veterans read as follows: "The road is now clear for an honorable reconciliation with our neighbor people"—meaning, of course, France.

What comes out of all this is a clear picture of the German nation executing an astounding but gratifying about-face, for we are told in a dispatch from Berlin that to-day the whole vast propaganda apparatus of the National Socialist party is devoted to showing to the German people that reconciliation with the "arch enemy" is not only possible but desirable. "We are passionately endeavoring to arrive at a reconciliation with France," Dr. Goebbels told 20,000 cheering Nazis at a rally as far back as last November. With such a protestation of peaceful intent when the Saar plebiscite campaign already had become quite "warm," the world naturally, not excluding France, will feel inclined to believe that the Hitler who said such nasty things about the "arch enemy" in his famous book is now the Hitler who sees his opportunity for leadership toward peace instead of strife, thus furnishing a striking parallel to the about-face which Premier Mussolini executed a year or so ago. It all proves once again the truth of the political adage that office and responsibility nearly always mellow. Who would have thought, for example, twenty years ago, that in 1935 Mr. Ramsay MacDonald would be the somewhat docile leader of what is, after all, an out-and-out Conservative government?

As a whole the European press seems highly pleased over Sunday's verdict. One or two French journals appear to be apprehensive lest jubilation over the Nazi victory may work severely against the minority elements, particularly the Jews, while in some quarters union of Germany with Austria is taken as inevitable—hardly likely with France and Italy determined that no such development will be tolerated. British press comments so far to hand contain only two jarring notes. Strangely enough, The Labor Daily Herald and Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express voiced them. The former sees the beginning "of terror and insults," and the latter thinks the Nazi triumph will harden Hitler. On the other hand, an article in The Daily Telegraph is described as representative of general editorial opinion. It says in part: "The return of the Saar to Germany should be hailed as closing a rankling sore which has kept alive resentment and delayed the healing processes of European appeasement." The News-Chronicle suggests that Hitler's broadcast "justifies at least the hope that the Saar plebiscite may mark not only the ending of the old controversy but the beginning of a newer and brighter chapter in Franco-German relations."

Hitler now has his chance to make a name for himself and to restore to Germany an honorable place among the nations. He has ample proof that the German nation is behind him, that it wants the form of government he is giving them, that it still desires regimentation of thought and action. That is entirely Germany's business, and no matter what form of government she may choose in the future, if she chooses to change at all, there is nothing to prevent her from playing her part in the erection of a new structure for peace on the continent of Europe. She may rest assured of the hearty collaboration of all the other peace-loving nations.

STILL "REFORMING"

"IF YOU WANT MINIMUM HOURS AND maximum wages," said Mr. Bennett at a Montreal Conservative meeting yesterday evening, "vote for me. If you do not, vote for King and Tascherreau."

Just a few months ago when Hon. H. H. Stevens made a speech criticizing the exploitation of employees by sundry industrial concerns, as revealed by the mass buying commission, Mr. Bennett kicked him out of the cabinet because two large mercantile companies objected to the criticism. And in Mr. Stevens's place he put Hon. Mr. Hanson, who represents everything to which the Prime Minister now says he is opposed.

The new reformer also is going to put an end to the exploitation of the country by stock watering, but not once in fifty-four months did he raise a finger to prevent this evil, or to check the various activities in that direction of his friends Sir Herbert Holt and S. H. Gundy, who, we presume, have also become the apostles of reform.

He is not going to destroy the capitalist system, he says, but he is going to make it "clean and decent." But in other speeches he and his ministers have been declaring that under that system Canada is rapidly recovering from her economic troubles. It will be noted that he is not reforming the banking system, even to the point of establishing a government central bank.

Mr. Bennett's appeal for the support of youth must sound queerly in the ears of the countless thousands of young people upon whom opportunities for employment he slammed and barred the door. Apparently only now, with an election in sight, has he discovered that there is such an element as youth among the population of this country.

Mr. Bennett is just four years too late with his reforms.

OUR LUMBER EXPORTS

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S LUMBER BUSIness with the United Kingdom has increased very substantially—last year's exports set a new high mark—but our exporters have had to fight strenuously for every bit of it and use every means in their power to wear down objections and disconcerting prejudices. At the present time the delegation of British Columbia lumbermen, recently returned from South Africa, is in London to try to persuade the British Board of Trade to prevent Timber Distributors Limited from increasing this year's contract with Soviet Russia from 350,000 standards, last year's curtailed total, to 450,000 standards—900,000,000 feet. They are being supported by a protest from the Dominion government, while High Commissioner Ferguson, acting British Columbia Agent-General McAdam, and British Columbia Lumber Commissioner Loren Brown are losing no opportunity to drive the point home.

While all this is going on "secret consultations" were taking place in Paris yesterday between representatives of Timber Distributors Limited and a Russian Commissar with the object of trying to reach an agreement on what is known as the "fall clause" in the coming season's contract. It is this clause to which Canadians strongly object and they are supported by one of the clauses in the Canada-United Kingdom pact of 1932. This means if, after the contract has been entered into with the Soviet exporters, say, for delivery between May and October, and the value of lumber falls, the Russians reserve to themselves the right to give the British importers the benefit. This is not Canada's practice. Hence, one of the difficulties which Canada's lumber industry is up against.

A REAL ASSET

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT assets of this district is the rural area which adjoins it, notably the Saanich Peninsula and the section on the west of the city along the highways leading to Sooke. The settlement of newcomers in these localities is something which should be encouraged by Victoria in every possible way, since the adequate development of our hinterland, making new wealth tributary to the community, would improve the city's economic welfare. Every contribution Victoria makes to the buying power of the neighboring district comes back, and it would pay the city to patronize its products even at a higher cost than those which are imported. All this is axiomatic, but seems to be overlooked by a considerable proportion of our populace. New settlers are many times more important than tourists in the long run, important though casual visitors undoubtedly are, and we should devote sufficient funds for advertising abroad for both.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA'S CASE

WESTERN AUSTRALIA'S GROUNDS for seeking secession from the Australian Commonwealth have a familiar ring to Western Canadians. It is contended that the large western state of the island continent suffers from a fiscal policy which is dictated in the interests of the more populous centres of the east. This, it is pointed out, is particularly true of the policy of high protection, which, by increasing the cost of primary production, has crippled the progress of the whole large area in whose cause the case for secession is presented.

The western Canadian provinces from time to time have submitted a list of grievances in their economic relations with eastern Canada in almost the same terms. They also have suffered from a fiscal policy devised specifically in the interests of the more populous centres of the east. They, too, claim that the policy of high tariff protection has increased their cost of production to a point which has seriously crippled their trade.

There is this difference, however, and that is that while the policy of high tariff protection is definitely fixed in Australia and the western state's prospects of securing relief from this question are almost hopeless, Canada's tariff wall is inevitably bound to be lowered with a change of government this year. Were it not for that prospect the western Canadian provinces would be much more aggressive in the prosecution of their case for better tariff conditions.

THE COMPANY PAPER
The Toronto Star

A man knows what is right and what is wrong, but an incorporated company may not know. It has too many people in it to be guided by an individual conscience. It does not employ what is wrong; it employs a lawyer to tell it what is legal and what is not. If big organizations would employ chaplains as well as lawyers old standards might be recovered.

"NO FINANCIAL PROFITS"
The Providence Journal

As for profits of war, the world minds merely to appraise its present economic and social condition sixteen years after the greatest conflict in history to appreciate that there are no financial profits. But, of course, there has always been heretofore a private redistribution of wartime earnings between those who do the actual fighting and those who keep the military and civilian population fed and equipped. If the members of the President's committee can find a practicable method of ending this unfair and indefensible division of current income, the nation will bestow its benediction on them.

"THE MOST UNKINDEST CUT OF ALL"
The St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Relating how the electric and gas utilities have scattered money in their propaganda campaigns, the Federal Trade Commission tells us that among the recipients of this bounty in 1927-28 was the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The federation's share of the largesse in that year was $10,000. Is this that noble part we had been led to believe the women were to play in the regeneration of America? Or have the women merely turned out to be the same as the men? It surprises us not to learn that most people took the money of the utilities, even character builders like the banks, the chambers of commerce and the Boy Scouts. But to think that the most innocuous of all our semi-political citizens, the women's clubs, should have done it. Oh, woe is us!

A THOUGHT

Loose Ends

The News Editor asks a foolish question—but what do you expect of a News Editor?—Mr. Putnam says a mouthful—they believe some in England—and we are found to be ghosts then.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

FOOLISH QUESTION

THE NEWS EDITOR of this newspaper had an inspiration the other day. It was blown in upon him by the bitterly cold north wind of blowing. He thereupon unleashed an army of reporters to find out whether women had stopped wearing silk stockings during the cold snap and if not, whether silk stockings were as cold as they looked.

The answer to both questions, as anyone but a news editor would have known in advance, was in the negative. The only surprising thing was that all the women questioned—one does not envy the lot of the poor reporter who has to ask ladies of all sorts whether their legs are cold, but I suppose in this business they must get callous—all the women admitted frankly that their legs were cold. Apparently, in her sheer silk stockings, the modern woman's legs have the clear, crystal cold beauty of a statue.

Perhaps the News Editor is to be thanked for clearing up this question. I mean, a lot of people have wondered whether the beautiful legs of this silken-hosed era were as cold as they were beautiful. Now we know. But why agitate the subject. Why discourage this cold beauty?

I think, it is all very well for men like news editors (who have no eye for beauty anyway) to scoff at the spectacle of ladies coatless in expensive furs to keep warm while their legs are scientifically refrigerated, but they could do much worse. They could refuse to wear silk stockings in the winter. That would be worse. That would be appalling.

As one contemplates the picture of all the neat ankles and statuesque legs which help in such large measure to give Victoria its peculiar winter charm, making it the overall playground of America—as one contemplates this picture of them all bundled up in ghastly wool or cotton, one shudders.

Just imagine the stark ugliness of our streets, the drabness of life, the dull horror of the Causeway, the utter boredom of the poor stop-and-go policeman at the corner of Yates and Douglas. If such a grisly spectacle ever occurred, news editors, who scoff now, would be the first to complain. Let news editors stop scoffing. Let them stop being so inquisitive and thank a wise nature which equipped women with vanity as well as ankles.

YOU NOW KNOW

WHEN YOU read of the amazing long-distance flights of Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam you must have wondered about Mr. Putnam, if any. You must have wondered how the unknown husband of the world's Number One Aviatrix felt about it all, or if he felt anything.

Well, the answer came from Honolulu this week, after Mrs. Putnam had flown to Los Angeles alone, and it is worth repeating here in case you have overlooked it. Informed of his wife's success, Mr. Putnam said: "I'd rather have a baby." Now you know what the husbands of famous aviatrices think. But what good does it do them? The only satisfactory husband for a famous aviatrix is a fellow who can't think at all.

AWFUL PROSPECT

IN ENGLAND, according to a dispatch in this newspaper, they have adopted a universal speed limit of thirty miles an hour. This is an appalling thought. What would happen if there were a speed limit of thirty miles an hour here? It would mean the entire dislocation of our civilization, which at present is geared to run at forty and fifty miles an hour and, at its present rate of increase, will be running at sixty miles an hour within a year or two.

Do you realize, for example, that if you could not travel more than thirty miles an hour—which would mean an average of twenty miles over a day's touring—that it would take you over two hours to drive to Duncan, about three and a half to Nanaimo, eight to Courtenay, and almost an hour to Sidney? Ghastly, isn't it?

True, it would probably mean the elimination of nearly all accidents, but this continent has never endured life against speed. It has always spoken in has never cared how many people were killed so long as it got to the big game freely than it spent money, party in time. The funny part of it is that the more leisure we have, the greater the desirability of reducing working hours and so spread employment, the faster we have driven. And for what? To echo time of course, when the great need of the time is to waste it.

And having traveled faster and got there sooner, we don't know how to put in the time, so we drive back again, all at as rapid a pace as possible. Now, if we had to travel along at thirty miles an hour we should regard it as an intolerable breach of our liberties.

We will allow the government to spend any amount of money on public health. We will enforce the laws against murder and suicide to save human life. We will allow the government to control our business and plan our economy. But unless the poor English who have permitted their hard-won freedom to be trampled down by a new speed law, we will insist on our right to kill ourselves and our friends whenever in our own way.

GLACIAL MAN

AND DOES this idea have some vague association in your mind with the following statement made last week by Ernest Albert Hooton of Harvard, one of the world's greatest anthropologists, when he said: "Unfortunately, I am unaware of any marked improvement of man's evolutionary status since the end of the glacial period."

Just remember what Mr. Hooton says next time you see some fellow driving through the streets at maximum speed. Just remember that he is only a glacial man after all. Remember it also when you are inclined to complain against our statesmen and governments. We are all glacial men. We have needed to be most of this week.

SCIENTISTS AND RELIGION

To the Editor:—There appears to be a considerable vagueness in the minds of a number of people as to the present attitude of scientists towards religion. So far as I am aware the latest statistics on the subject are those compiled by James H. Leuba, Emeritus Professor of Psychology, Bryn Mawr College. These statistics are for 1933, and were made among the 30,000 scientists listed in "American Men of Science." The results are as follows:

Believers in God: Physicists, 28 per cent; biologists, 27 per cent; sociologists, 34 per cent, and psychologists only 10 per cent.

Believers in any form of personal immortality: Physicists, 41 per cent; biologists, 29 per cent; sociologists, 35 per cent, and psychologists only 9 per cent.

These and further inquiries Professor Leuba sums up as follows: "The statistics for 1933 have revealed that the larger proportions of believers are found in the following categories of persons: (1) The scientists who know least about living matter, society and the mind; (2) the less eminent in every branch of science; (3) the scientists who were trained more than twenty years ago." These facts speak for themselves.

SINGING

To the Editor: — It seems strange that in a day such as this people march "singing" when they cannot produce a "note" themselves. We are able to find the proper technique for accomplishing many objects in life, as well as in the various arts, and without difficulty, too, if we know what we are aiming. There seems a prevalent idea that this is not true as regards singing. The result is apparent. Most modern voice teachers cannot sing. One would never study the French language under an Englishman who knew no French.

The average teacher knows when a sound is agreeable to him, and which he would like to hear, but how few can tell by the slightest variation in this sound just what has been done mechanically to make the sound either better or worse?

Unless one can do this one has no right to teach others to make mistakes, usually worse than those previously made—mistakes which can take years to mend.

Some artists sing in spite of teachers and not on account of them.

One would never think of going to a piano teacher if violin was the instrument they were about to study. So, in conclusion, these days everyone teaches singing, from the conductor who has conducted great and small to the accompanist.

They generally know next to nothing as to the mechanism involved, and obviously it is not possible to tell another something of which he knows nothing. Especially in this type of singing, where minute details of action and consequent tone must be partially experienced and understood.

It seems strange that a singer would even consider studying with a person who could not produce a tone. Let the vocal pupil take precaution when about to study the voice, a very delicate mechanism.

A SINGER.

FOUL BAY ROAD

To the Editor:—I am one who is very glad to know that they are going to change the name of Foul Bay Road to something better, I hope. We have some queer names on streets in these parts. Look at this now, on an oak tree at the Willows. It says: "Manitoba Street." Now, what the hell does that mean? More likely it means: Am I oak or am I O.K.?

Well, sir, the other evening I was watching a covey of quail feeding outside my gate on the dirt road. They came every evening. There used to be ten. Sometimes, later in the year, they have seven baby chicks with them. It just occurred to me that if they took out the "q" from Foul and put in a "w" that would alter things wonderfully, and people would say this must be the place the birds come to in Victoria. J.D.T.

CHILDREN'S AID

To the Editor:—Sir, in regard to the endeavor being put forth to raise $1,000 for the Children's Aid Home, I am open to assist in any way possible, as I will know it is a very worthy cause and having had the pleasure of performing 65 per cent of the medical work for our charity in Victoria during the last four years, which was close to 150 cases, I can assure you that nothing would please me better than to have some generous theatre owner contribute the use of his theatre for two night performances, allotting one night to my show of illusions and magic, and possibly Professor W. Herbert would donate his show the other night. If Canada his show the other night. If Canada is inclined to assist.

As for my own show, I could place some magic effects before the public never seen in Victoria before, which can be shown to the best advantage on a professional stage, as I have at my disposal close on $1,000 worth of magical effects, the largest collection of any magician in British Columbia. I am no better way to put them to good use than a cause of this kind.

SOCIALISM AND CONSCIENCE

To the Editor:—Washing dirty political linen may or may not be the function of a newspaper, at least it always another that the business of a newspaper is to keep its readers informed of the news of the world. Some of the news is not pleasant reading, but it is better to know the worst than to be misled by ignorance. Some of the news is not to the liking of the publication, but it is better to know the opinions of others

Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

It's Often Nothing More Serious Than a Touch of "Acid Stomach"

HOW TO RELIEVE IT

Many people begin to look back on the days of their youth. They worry. Every day is hard work. Even pleasure alone—that "tonic"—tires and by 8 p.m. they want to stretch out. They feel they're growing old.

Not at all, medical authorities say the cause, in a great many cases, is only that a hindrance to an acid condition of the stomach, perhaps the result of faulty diet. Nothing more.

The thing to do is simply to neutralize excess stomach acid. When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. Soon you feel the exciting pleasure. Stomach calm. Fewer headaches. And the pep and energy you thought lost, comes back again!

Try this. Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS" or the new "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets,"—convenient to take with you anywhere...

Also in Tablet Form: Every one of these tablets has the same quality as the liquid Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A union meeting of the Baptist churches of the city will be held in the First Baptist Church on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock to hear an address by Dr. John B. MacLaurin, an outstanding Canadian Baptist missionary to India. He is a son of John MacLaurin, a pioneer missionary to the Telugus of India. Dr. MacLaurin has spent a number of years in India as a missionary and educationist, and represented Canada at the World Baptist Congress in Germany in place of the president, Dr. John McNeill, who was too ill to attend. During his furlough in Canada he is on the staff of Brandon College as professor of theology.

ARMY HAS DONE MUCH IN YEAR

Salvationists Conclude 12 Months With Gratifying Report of Efforts

The officers of the Salvation Army in city expressed their thanks to all who helped make their Christmas appeal campaign a success. The many letters of gratitude that have been received from the recipients of Christmas cheer show how the work was appreciated.

The statistical summary for December has been completed and forwarded to the territorial audit department, and shows that during the Christmas season 1934 family baskets were delivered, in addition to which a special Christmas dinner was supplied to twenty-nine persons, and in the week prior to Christmas nineteen families were supplied with groceries and fuel.

In addition to the foregoing, 140 free meals were supplied during December to needy cases, 178 beds were provided, and almost 300 garments were given away.

A review of the year's work of the Victoria unit of the Salvation Army has been mailed to many friends of the organization, showing that in spite of grave financial difficulties the work of the Army locally has been more than ever fulfilling its mission. During last year 1,324 meals were given away, and in the same period 1,710 sick and homeless men were provided with free beds. Clothing and shoes were supplied free to 302 families, representing a total of over 4,000 garments. Five hundred families were given food and fuel.

Many have taken advantage of the free labor bureau on that memorable situations were found for 201 men. Forty-six men were started afresh in life. Over 11,000 periodicals were given away in the local hospitals and institutions. Two hundred and twenty visits by brigades of workers were registered.

The aim of the Salvation Army is to render an increasingly efficient service to the community and the officers in charge of the local work are heavily appreciative of the response that is made from time to time to their appeals.

It is expected another work will be selected, if time permits, which will be given.

Classified System of Long-Distance Service which is already in force on calls to the interior of British Columbia, other parts of Canada and to the United States

Will Be Extended to Remainder of Our Lines January 21

Station-to-Station Telephone Calls the cheapest class of long-distance service will be available on all our lines

On January 21, the Classified System of Long-Distance Telephone Service will be extended to cover calls to Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland points, bringing with it the advantage of station-to-station calls, which are the cheapest class of long-distance service.

The Classified System is the one already in effect on calls to British Columbia points east of Hope, and to other parts of Canada and to the United States.

The Classified System will replace the system now in effect on calls to Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland points. Consequently some of the information in the current telephone directory will not apply after the change takes place.

Under the Classified System there are the following classes of calls:

PERSON-TO-PERSON CALLS.—On a person-to-person call you ask for a particular person and pay only if you talk to that person. The rate is the same at all hours of the day or night. The minimum period is three minutes.

STATION-TO-STATION CALLS.—On a station-to-station call you call a particular telephone number but not a particular person, and you pay if someone answers at that telephone, no matter who it is.

You say, for example, "I want anyone at 345, Duncan."
Or, "I want anyone at Smith's Furniture Store, Duncan."

On station-to-station calls there is a day rate from 4.30 a.m. to 7 p.m., an evening rate from 7 p.m. to 8.30 p.m., and a night rate from 8.30 p.m. to 4.30 a.m. The minimum period is three minutes.

APPOINTMENT AND MESSENGER CALLS.—The rate is higher than for a person-to-person call, and is the same at all hours.

HUMOR REVEALS A DIFFERENCE

Dr. T. A. Rickard Contrasts British and American Points of View

American humor depends largely upon exaggeration, while British humor is given rather to understatement and irony, Dr. T. A. Rickard told the Women's Club yesterday evening in a brilliant address on "Anglo-American Contrasts."

With an intimate knowledge of both peoples, the speaker enumerated the differing points of view, with special reference to the contrasts in the sense of humor of the American and British. He illustrated his points with a wealth of story, anecdote and personal reminiscence which added much to the interest of his address.

CANADIAN ADVANTAGE

Canadians enjoyed the advantage of being able to interpret and to understand the humor of both countries, Dr. Rickard observed. But to many Britishers, the jokes enjoyed by Americans were unintelligible, and vice versa.

"Difference of ideas as to what constitutes humor separates the Briton and the American more truly than the Atlantic itself," he suggested.

The Briton, however, was not as slow as some people thought, and could be as witty as anybody. The occasion for wit was rare, but the chance for humor was frequent. The British sense of humor differed from the American. That of the American depended upon exaggeration and incongruity, with wealth of simile; the Briton enjoyed understatement or irony.

MODESTY VS. ASSERTIVENESS

Declaring that nothing will alienate one man from another as much as lack of appreciation of each other's efforts to be funny, Dr. Rickard proceeded to point out that the dominant type of Englishman has been on top so long in his own country that he does not talk about it, but hides his acceptance of superiority under a cloak of modesty. That, with his fear of ridicule, inclines to make him stolid. But this stolidity and mock modesty was, perhaps, less objectionable than the blatant assertiveness of a certain type of American.

Neither British nor Americans could claim a monopoly of all the virtues, however, and each could learn much from the other, observed the speaker. But it would be a mistake to emulate all dissimilarities between the two peoples, just as it would be a calamity to have Great Britain peopled by Americans or the United States peopled by Britons.

In summarizing, Dr. Rickard touched a more serious note: "Let us be not like to like, but like in difference, stimulated by a varying mental outlook, prompted by divergent ideals, but each accomplishing his destiny and uniting toward that divine event when our civilization shall have fulfilled itself in universal good fellowship and mutual understanding, rendering impossible the insanity of war."

During the evening Miss Sheila Tait, pianiste, contributed two Beethoven numbers which were much enjoyed.

Local Council's Forty Years of Work Reviewed

Mrs. C. C. Spofford at Annual Meeting To-day Recalls Its Achievements Along Community Lines; Many Reforms Achieved by Women

A round of forty years of accomplishment along many fields of community service by the Local Council of Women was ably reviewed by Mrs. C. C. Spofford, president, in her address at the fortieth annual meeting, which opened this morning in the New Thought Hall.

STRENGTH IN UNITY

Mrs. Spofford marshalled her comments in the form of answers to three questions: First, is there a place today in the economy of women's activities for the Local Council of Women? Second, What is the purpose of the organization? Third, Has its accomplishments in the past justified its existence and warranted the support of the societies in affiliation.

To the first question, Mrs. Spofford replied that there is a place for the council in this day of complex problems, and that to meet the trial imposed "women must be willing to shed the shackles of her inferiority complex which the shibboleth of generations has bred into her very bone, in order to have faith and courage." Unity, the ideal of the council, was essential in securing reforms which were still much needed.

As to the purpose of the council, it is a meeting ground where women of all shades of opinion can co-ordinate their aims to a common good, for the achievement of those reforms which are only possible through unity of thought, sympathy and purpose, she declared.

MANY UNDERTAKINGS

That its accomplishments in the past more than justified its existence, was evident, the president noted. She summarized the main undertakings launched in the first year of its inception, 1894 to 1895, when it had twenty-nine affiliated societies and about 900 members. These undertakings included the organization of the Friendly Help Society, the establishment of the Home for Aged Women, the appointment of police matrons and also of truant officers.

In the succeeding years many other activities testified to the value of the Local Council to the community. These included an endeavor to have temporary protection for women prisoners, other than the common jail, the organization of the local branch of the Red Cross, the passing of legislation for public school playgrounds, the separation of Royal Jubilee from grocery stores, the protection of girls from being unnecessarily exposed the morals menace in the city parks, and the payment of the cost of the first nurse appointed to the Outlying District, which, in raising the endowment fund for the Lady Minto cottage hospital, which was the outcome of the work of the V.O.N., and the raising of an endowment fund for the establishment of a chair in home economics at the University of B.C.

In addition to all these measures which the council had been instrumental in bringing about, it had also led the way in obtaining legislation protecting women and children, Mrs. Spofford observed.

REPORTS PRESENTED

Mrs. A. C. Ross, the corresponding secretary, gave an interesting resume of the outstanding undertakings of the last year, and Mrs. J. W. Gibson presented the financial report.

After the opening exercises, a standing silent tribute was paused to those members who had passed on during the year.

Knights Hosts To Little Guests

Saturday night in their Castle Hall, Broad Street, Far West Victoria Lodge No. 1, held a Christmas tree and entertainment for some of the less fortunate children of the city. Miss Winnifred Greenlee accompanied the little dancers.

Other artists on the programme were: Bob Hanson, song; E. F. Crockford, magical entertainer; F. Carter and R. Hedgley in Irish sad music; and two young Cornish and young Finlayson displayed their wares in a three round boxing exhibition. "Bobby" Clark was the third man in the ring, and L. Gaspill was the official time-keeper.

Refreshments were served, after which Santa Claus appeared on the scene and presented each kiddy with a gift and a bag of candy. O. B. Davies was master of ceremonies, and Percy Shakespeare was chairman of the entertainment committee. The refreshments were served by Mrs. B. McDowell, assisted by Mrs. Monk, Mrs. Blundell and Miss Kitty Allison. At the close of the festivities the children were escorted safely home by the Knights.

Weddings

ISLIP—BANYARD

A quiet wedding was solemnized yesterday evening at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. E. F. Church, Pemberton Road, when he united in marriage Gwendolyn Lone, youngest daughter of the late Mrs. Emily Alice Banyard, of Eastbourne, Sussex, England, to William Frank Islip, only son of Mrs. Janette B. Islip, of 2055 Rose Street.

Only relatives and intimate friends witnessed the ceremony. The bride was attractive in a pretty gown of royal blue georgette and radium lace, with which she wore a white hat and accessories and carried a sheaf of white chrysanthemums. Mrs. H. Fletcher of Lake Hill was her only attendant, and Mr. H. Fletcher was groomsman.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Rose Street, where a host of friends of the young couple assembled to tender them good wishes.

SYMPHONY CONCERT HERE IN FEBRUARY

A symphony orchestra is a force for good in the community, but for each city where music-loving people live to maintain such an organization would be impossible.

The Service Clubs' Council realizes that this need should be met and with the co-operation of a few individual citizens has arranged to bring the Seattle Symphony Orchestra to Victoria for two performances on Friday, February 1. The amount received by the orchestra represents but a small fraction of the cost of the production of such a concert, and Victorians are fortunate to have this opportunity of hearing such a splendid orchestra conducted by a distinguished musician of Basil Cameron's ability. When Mr. Cameron was engaged two years ago to lead this orchestra there were many difficulties confronting this, as well as every other major orchestra in the country, but since that time the improvement in the ensemble has been steady and marked, and the musicians guided by a conductor of forceful personality and sound musicianship, have merged their virtuosity into an ensemble capable of admirable performances of great music.

Tickets may be reserved by mail order at once.

Lecturing is Tough Work

15,000 miles of strenuous work—night and day

The above is from a photograph of Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., taken in his 76th year.

As I write this article I am between lecture trips. I have but recently returned from my lecture tour across Canada, down the Pacific Coast to southern California, returning by way of mid-southern and mid-western states, finishing in Chicago. I visited approximately 60 cities, travelling about 8,000 miles. I spoke often twice and sometimes thrice a day, delivering in all 100 lectures. I got to bed late and was up early. I had irregular meals and waited in cold, draughty stations for belated trains. I motored 1,800 miles in Western Alberta and British Columbia mountains, over crooked, steep graded "washboard" dusty roads, often over a mile high. Before this is in print, I shall leave for Montreal, Ottawa and other eastern Ontario points, where I will give a further series of lectures, and I know the halls will be crowded to capacity.

Yes, constant lecturing is a tough job, all right! . . . A "dog's life". Before I left for the West I made this statement. "I will come back to Toronto in December, full of pep and energy. I will not be tired. I will not have had a cold or any other sickness." As I write, every promise has been kept, every prediction has been true. I still say positively I shall finish my tour in "top form". And I again publicly challenge any disease, even a cold, to attack me, and from every lecture platform I shall defy disease as thousands have already heard me do. Then in January I'm off again, lecturing continually until May in western Ontario, Detroit, Chicago, Kansas City, Georgia, Florida and returning via Atlantic states, taking in Virginia, Washington, New York, Boston and other north-eastern points, probably 15,000 miles in eight months. Not once shall I miss an appointment, be sick, have a cold, an ache or a pain or be tired out. During every minute I shall be mentally and physically alert, "on my toes" and when time permits climb a mountain or take a walk of five to ten or more miles.

I am certain that all of the many thousands who have attended my lectures all across western Canada from Port Arthur to Victoria and Nanaimo, B.C., and seen for themselves how vital and youthfully vigorous I am, will have no hesitancy in believing I am not boasting or printing bombast in the foregoing and all will be just as certain as I am that I shall never be sick, or have a cold, or be fatigued, or miss a lecture engagement, during this long eight months' itinerary, including the trying winter months in Canada and New England.

Now while in my lectures I did not say much about the part played by my Dr. Jackson foods, Roman Meal, Bekus-Puddy, Lishus and Kofy-Sub, in building for me the altogether unusual body of an unusually well developed young athlete at almost 77, it was not because there was not much to say. I simply chose to let my audiences witness my physical perfection and allow those who have even a moderate degree of intelligence to draw their own conclusions. I believe there could not be many in my audiences who would not realize that because I came back from the brink of the grave at 50, to such a state of physical perfection that I safely defy disease at almost 77, I at least understand a good deal about how to build a healthy body. Well, I wish to assert in the most positive manner of which speech is capable that the use of Roman Meal, Bekus-Puddy, Lishus and Kofy-Sub have been the chief agencies in my come-back and without them, but particularly without Roman Meal and Kofy-Sub, both of which I have used extensively for 27 years, long before they were marketed, I never could have come back.

The success of the Dr. Jackson Products is phenomenal and a great tribute to their health-building properties. Their sales have increased 650 per cent. during the depression, making necessary 3 huge additions to the factory, the one now in process of construction will add 200 per cent. to the manufacturing space, giving the factory when completed, a ground area covering much of a city block. As an indication of the growth of demand for Dr. Jackson Products I have only to point out that in Vancouver alone sales jumped from 4 carloads in 1933 to 20 carloads in 1934 and already 11 carloads are en route to Vancouver via the canal, with which to satisfy the increasing demand of 1935, and this despite the fact that B.C. has more spurious imitations of Roman Meal than all the rest of Canada, for which their conscienceless promoters can find no more important thing to say than the entirely false claim that they are "the same as Roman Meal" or "like Roman Meal", etc. They are not, and they cannot be for the simple reason that their makers cannot possibly obtain the flax-o-lin that makes Dr. Jackson Products different from all other grain foods. Of course, anyone who knows human nature understands that one who would try to sneak in and profit by stealing some other person's brains would not hesitate at an untruth to put the spurious imitation over, but such imitations and false activities always fail, 28 such having come and gone since Roman Meal came on the market. Just watch, not one of these imitations will be in existence three years from now. They cannot help but fail if for no other reason than that they make Roman Meal the standard of quality and perfection and wise housewives ultimately buy the standard quality foods at which imitations aim. I think it probable that these false imitations of Roman Meal have had a good deal to do with the tremendous increase of sales of Roman Meal, Bekus-Puddy, Lishus and Kofy-Sub in Vancouver in the past year.

Now it is not my intention to urge readers not to buy these falsely styled "the same as Roman Meal" cereals. I have no desire to do that but I say with all the force of words they are not at all the same as Roman Meal. It is utterly false and dishonest to say so. Dr. Jackson cereals are in a class by themselves and this fact cannot be emphasized too strongly. The serious seeker will at least make a sufficiently long test of Dr. Jackson Products to find out and that is all I ask. Write for booklet "How to Keep Well" and list of alkali-forming foods (both free) to Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., Vine Avenue, Toronto. 577

BABY GIRL IS EXPERT SKATER

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 16.—A fifteen-months-old girl climbed seven-foot stairs, dropped unaided from 4½-foot heights and roller skated to-day before an audience of psychologists and doctors.

Her twin sister, Margie, unable to perform any of these feats, was present as a laboratory exhibit of the untrained child.

Florie, the agile child, and her identical twin, have put in an eight-hour, five-day week since birth at the normal child development clinic in the babies' hospital of the Columbia-Presbyterian medical centre, developing for scientists the latest theories of child training.

Dr. Myrtle B McGraw, who has had the twins in daily charge, said her studies indicate that some of the advice handed out to parents has been "bunk," specifically the idea of undisciplined freedom for children and the warning never to say "don't." Said Dr. McGraw:

"I will permit a baby, which has just learned to reach for an object, to pull out and push in a bureau drawer as often as it wants in order to develop its sensory experience.

"But to let your twelve-year-old child who doesn't need that type of sensory experiencing pull out and push in a bureau drawer just because it wants to is downright damaging to growth.

"At the age of two the child should be discriminating and adjusting himself to his environment."

Queen to Wed A Policeman

Canadian Press from Havas

Paris, Jan. 16.—Queen Salimanachimbe, of the tropical island of Mohilla, just north of Madagascar, has renounced her flowery kingdom for the love of a Paris policeman. Her cousin is the Queen Ranavalo, who ruled over the rich island territory of Madagascar, and the French Government once confirmed Salimanachimbe's royal status with an annuity of 5,000 francs.

In addition to her economic independence, the queen possesses many tropical acres and the privilege of life and death over her subjects, but she has renounced all this and abandoned her throne. In fact, the lovelorn queen is said to have already departed and to be living in a slum here in comparative poverty, with love and a gendarme as her only solace.

The government of Madagascar was asked to allot Queen Salimanachimbe a yearly stipend for which she agrees to cede her kingdom to France.

Conditions Constitute A Challenge To Church

Presbyterian W.M.S. Urged by Montreal Speakers to Go Forward With New Vision for Work in Foreign Fields

Challenging addresses urging the women to rededicate themselves with a new vision, "to look upward and outward, and not inward," to the great task of furthering the missionary work of the Presbyterian Church, were given by Miss Laura E. Pelton, traveling Y.W. secretary, and Mrs. Owen Campbell, both of Montreal, at the opening meeting yesterday evening of the Victoria Presbyterial of the Presbyterian W.M.S.

"The temptation to conceive of our missionary task in terms of our resources" was deplored by Miss Pelton, as she spoke of the great sacrifices which had been entailed through depleted resources, especially in the Chinese, Japanese and Indian fields.

Reference was made to the situation in Japan and the ultra-nationalism which is the predominant spirit to-day, and which owes its origin to its age-old religious belief in Shintoism. "If Japan was Christianized, who knows what it would mean to the world," she asked.

PROBLEMS IN ORIENT

Miss Pelton touched upon economic conditions in Japan, its social and political problems, its groping after new ideals and new faiths. China and its hopes for democratic equality with other countries, its internal problems, its youth breaking away from old customs and old authorities, constituted a challenge to the Christian church, the speaker claimed.

She pleaded for an approach to these peoples of the Orient, not as Japanese or Chinese, not as heathen, but as fellow human beings with problems similar to those facing human beings of the western world.

CHINA AND QUEBEC

After hearing Princess Der Ling, a noted Chinese woman, speak of the amazing aggressiveness of the Chinese women to-day, Miss Pelton said she was constrained to compare the "antiquated laws of Quebec as they affect women with the progressive measures of China."

The emancipation of women in India, the eagerness of its youth to desert the old authorities before they are ready to take hold for themselves, also offered a challenge to the Presbyterian church to avail itself of the opportunity of helping to guide these people along the right way, the speaker declared.

MRS OWEN CAMPBELL

Vision, not merely a sense of duty, should be the inspiration, the incentive, for taking an active interest in missionary work, said Mrs. Owen Campbell of Montreal, in an inspiring address. Reminding her audience of the value of "a spiritual housecleaning and the refurbishing of the mind with a new vision," she urged the women to reconsecrate themselves to the missionary task and to go forward with renewed courage in the furthering of this most essential branch of church work.

PRESBYTERY GREETINGS

Rev. J. S. Patterson brought greetings from the Victoria Presbytery, and referred with regret to the illness of Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, of Rev. Chas. Thompson and Rev. T. H. McAllister. He also welcomed Rev. S. B. Hillocks of Calgary, who is in charge of St. Andrew's during the illness of Mr. Luttrell.

"I think the time has come for the Kingdom of God to stop retreating and stop entrenching," said Mr. Patterson, as he challenged the church to reorganize its forces for forward progress to meet the problems confronting it to-day.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

Mrs. D. M. McCall, corresponding secretary, read a report of the year's activities, chief among which was the twentieth annual meeting of the Provincial W.M.S., held in March. Rev. C. P. Young and Mrs. Young had addressed the Victoria Presbyterial; Mrs. Thomas Wilson, provincial corresponding secretary, had given an account of the seventieth annual meeting in Montreal; the amalgamation of the Gorge and Erskine Churches had proved beneficial, and successful work had been carried on in Port Alberni and Duncan. The Chinese W.M.S. had met its allocation financially. Much valuable work had been done in the library department and an increase in membership and "givings" was reported by the mission band secretary. The work of the Glad Tidings secretary, the home helpers, the supply secretary, the welcome and welfare department, the student secretaries, the girls' organizations, the secretary and others.

One life membership and two junior certificates had been presented. The treasurer, Mrs. Lister, reported a falling revenue, but the earnest efforts put forth by the rank and file of members was warmly appreciated. A total of $1,012.75 was realized in 1934 by all auxiliaries, which was $121.02 less than the previous year. Mission bands contributed $75.92; young women, $129.69; C.O.I.T., $7.55; making a total of $1,325.35. The sessions continue to-day.

Mrs. W. L. Clay, first vice-president, was in the chair, in the absence of Mrs. W. Sanders, the Presbyterial president. Mrs. J. S. Patterson delighted the members with a solo, and three hymns were sung during the evening. Rev. S. B. Hillocks gave the closing prayer.

NEWCOMERS TO ACT IN PLAY

Little Theatre Association to Give "The Late Christopher Bean" on Monday

For the season's second production the Little Theatre Association has chosen "The Late Christopher Bean," which will be presented to a Victoria audience next Monday evening in the Shrine Auditorium.

Under the direction of Charles Ouard, a splendid cast is hard at work to make this production an outstanding one in every particular. Several newcomers to the Little Theatre ranks have been given parts, while such favorites as Betty Netherington, A. H. Kerr, Hugh Creelman and Evelyn Ouard complete the cast.

"The Late Christopher Bean" is a comedy — but in the Shakespearian sense—not the modern sense of the word. It is humorous in spots, but its humor is only incidental coloring. The plot reveals play and interplay of emotions—action and reaction of wills and desires—at cross purposes, ambition and self-respect alternately ruling some of the cast, and through it all the steady, quiet wistfulness and reality of the central character sharply contrasting the baser emotions of the majority of characters of the cast.

The Little Theatre Association has found a new and keener interest in the spoken drama being displayed by Victorians, and a great effort is being made by the association to produce the type of play that its many followers are interested in seeing. Jack Barraclough, the secretary, will be glad to give information concerning the organization at any time to those interested.

The box office for "The Late Christopher Bean" will open at Fletcher Bros. to-morrow, when tickets for the performance may be exchanged and seats reserved.

At the executive meeting of the Olypa Club, which was held at the home of Miss Lucy Shaw, Redfern Street, on Friday evening, delegates were appointed to the federal youth movement rally to be held on Wednesday evening at the Y.M.C.A., also to the Young People's College, and the quarterly official board of the Oak Bay United Church, as a result of a successful party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ruffell, Monterey Avenue, last week, the club's treasurer, Miss B. Rollins was able to make a favorable report, and was instructed to liquidate $10 of the club's indebtedness. A report was read from the Young People's Union urging support for the annual oratorical contest to be staged on February 26. Those present at the meeting were Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Switzer, President Eric Gorman, Miss Mary Sinclair, Miss Beatrice Hollins, Lucy Shaw, Miss I. Barnes, Miss W. Graham, Max Paryon and Will. Summerfield.

ST. JOHN'S

A short business meeting of St. John's A.Y.P.A. was held on Monday evening, with Stanley Cooper in the chair. A detailed report of the programme for the provincial conference which is being held in Victoria on February 2 and 3 was given. Delegates from St. John's will be Stanley Cooper and Stanley Lever. As the entire conference will be held in St. John's, it was agreed that the branch would decorate the auditorium for the occasion, with Misses F. Malaine, L. Trickett, T. Rideout and Stan and J. Lever acting as a committee. Misses K. Brown, B. Martin, V. Dodds and R. Bowcroft offered to assist with serving at the conference.

S. Cooper and J. Lever were appointed to take charge of arranging for the Easter play. On February 4 Rev. F. Comley of Royal Oak will give an interesting illustrated talk on the Columbia Coast Mission.

All arrangements have been completed for the banquet and dance, and it is expected a large number will be present. The affair will be held in the Foresters' large hall on January 18.

The evening's programme was concluded with a ping-pong tournament.

The next meeting will be held on January 31, when some slides will be shown.

CENTENNIAL UNITED

The weekly meeting of Centennial Young People's Society was held in the church parlors on Tuesday evening. A short devotional period opened the meeting, the lead being taken by Wilma Soanes, Jim McCague and C. Brands. After the reading of the minutes a short business period followed. The main event of the evening was a debate staged by members of the study group. They took as their subject "Resolved that Democracy is impracticable when associated with Capitalism." Outside judges were present. They were Mrs. C. G. Blanchmont, Mr. Jackson and Rev. W. Howard. They decided in favor of the negative, which was upheld by Rhoda Cargill and Ernest Hatch. The affirmative was taken by Florence Mortar and Frank Rollins. During the course of the evening Miss Margaret Aumack gave a fine recitation and Miss Betty Clarion a violin solo, which was much appreciated. While the judges were out, Ernest Hatch read the weekly bulletin. The meeting closed with a hymn and the benediction.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

BABY'S SOLID FOODS MUST BE GIVEN ON FOUR-HOUR SCHEDULE

All during baby's first year his milk formula is strengthened gradually until the total is thirty-two ounces of whole cow's milk daily. After this amount is reached, there is no further increase as this is considered to be the maximum for one day's feeding.

From the third month on, solid foods, such as cereal, vegetables and egg yolk, must supply such increases in nutrition as baby's growth and needs demand.

One of the common mistakes made by mothers in the feeding of solid foods and formula is to separate them, making a complete feeding of each. The net result of such a policy is that baby gets fed every two, instead of every four hours, and his appetite suffers from it.

HE'S NEVER HUNGRY

"My baby does not care for his vegetables or cereals," Mrs. P. K. H. writes. "I give him milk at 6 a.m., a dish of cereal at 8, of which he takes only a spoonful or so, a bottle of milk at 10, vegetables at 12 and another bottle at 3 p.m. and at 6. He is never hungry but will always drink his milk."

Baby's age is hard to determine, but, whatever it is, the frequent feeding hours are probably responsible for the lack of appetite.

FOUR HOURS TO GET HUNGRY

Babies of more than six pounds, do better on four-hour schedules, and this means food only once in four hours, instead of twice in that length of time. At the end of two hours the stomach is still wrestling with the last meal and the appetite becomes active when only the stomach is empty.

If the baby is still under twelve months the following schedule will probably be best suited to him.

Offer one cup or bottle of milk at 6 a.m. The juice of an orange at 9 a.m. From one teaspoonful to four tablespoons of well cooked cereal, followed immediately by a bottle or cup of milk at 10 a.m. and one teaspoonful of cod liver oil.

EGG YOLK AFTER SIX MONTHS

Our leaflet on "Increase in New Foods" will indicate the probably steps by which one goes from one teaspoonful to the larger amounts of foods. It may be had by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

At 2 a.m give sieved vegetables and a bottle and another teaspoon of cod liver oil and at 6 p.m. a meal exactly like the 10 a.m. one. Egg yolk can be given with the 2 p.m. feeding after the fifth or sixth month.

To-morrow: "Bottle Should Be Used Only When Mother Cannot Nourish Baby."

Sister Mary's Kitchen

By MARY E. DAGUE

Eggless cake as fine-grained and delicious as the one made with an extravagant number of eggs is this year's gift to the housewife from the home-making laboratories. I dare predict that there is not a husband who can resist the appeal of a moist raisin cake with cocoa icing.

Cake helps to make an easily-planned meal, for you may start with fruit cup, or you may start with soup and tuck a fruit salad in for the main course if it is lunch, or the salad if it is dinner.

RAISIN CAKE

This cake, which is butterless, eggless and milkless, will prove a boon when the cupboard is bare and something must be made for luncheon or dinner. The name, raisin cake, is absolutely unrevealing and enlightens no one on the subject of the cake's economical ingredients.

Two cups seedless raisins, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup water, 1-3 cup lard or other shortening, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Put sugar, water, lard, raisins and salt in saucepan and bring to the boiling point and boil three minutes. Cool. When cool add soda dissolved in 2 tablespoons hot water. Beat well and add flour mixed and sifted with spices and baking powder. Mix thoroughly and add vanilla. Turn into an oiled and floured loaf cake pan and bake forty minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

The following icing uses no eggs and is soft and creamy:

ICING

One cup confectioners' sugar, 2 teaspoons cocoa, 2 dessertspoons cold coffee infusion, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Mix and sift sugar and cocoa. Cream butter and gradually beat in part of sugar. Add 1 spoonful of coffee, vanilla and remaining sugar. Mix thoroughly, adding coffee to make of spreading consistency. Spread on cake while it is slightly warm.

CHOCOLATE COCONUT CAKE

Two cups pastry flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup butter or other shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 2 squares baking chocolate, ¾ cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

FROSTING

White 2 eggs, 1½ cups sugar, 6 tablespoons water, 2 tablespoons light corn syrup, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups shredded coconut.

Sift flour once before measuring. Add baking powder and salt and sift three times. Cream shortening thoroughly, gradually adding sugar and beating until light and fluffy. Add well-beaten egg and beat mixture well. Stir in chocolate melted over hot water. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, beating to keep smooth. Add vanilla and turn into two oiled and floured layer cake pans. Bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). When cool put together and cover top and sides with frosting.

Put egg whites, sugar, water and syrup in top of double-boiler, beating with a rotary beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly-boiling water and beat constantly with rotary beater. Cook and beat for seven minutes or until frosting will stand up in peaks. Remove from boiling water, add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread. Spread on cake and sprinkle with coconut while frosting is still soft.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Dinner: Cream of tomato soup, boned fresh pork shoulder stuffed and roasted, mashed potatoes, broccoli with lemon butter, salad of mixed fruits, chocolate coconut cake, milk, coffee.

-- Serial Story --
Blonde Goddess

By HERBERT JENSEN

The figure of a man stirred in a corner of the dark enclosure. He seemed half buried in a bed of palm leaves. His clothing, a mass of wet rags, clung to his powerful frame. His hair was black and damp, beard-stubble served but to accentuate the strength of his jaws and chin. He pushed himself to his hands and knees.

The voice with the foreign accent again took advantage of a lull in the thunder. "Juan, my boy, you should consider yourself lucky that you're not a genius. Believe me, I suffer more because of my talents than I do from my faults, although if I do say it myself—"

"Bowie! What a crash that was! Look at that flash! . . . Juan! He's conscious. Stir up the fire, Frank! Frank! It's me, Frank. Horatio Greene—"

Excitedly Juan was blowing upon the near dead embers of a fire. Greene feverishly hauled dried palm leaves and driftwood toward him. A small flame broke out; then the fire blazed up.

Frank Grahame sat upright upon the heap of palm leaves. He shook his head as if to clear it. For an instant he stared at the two anxious faces turned toward him, one dark and drawn with concern—the Mestizo boy. Juan—the other, white but gaunt and stubbled with weeks of unshaved beard.

A tired grin spread over the face of Grahame. "Hello, genius," he chuckled hoarsely. "Don't let me interrupt. You were speaking of miracles. Answer me this one, Greene: am I here—and alive—and you, and Juan?"

Greene answered with an excited laugh. "Sure," he exclaimed. "A cinch! Juan and I were just talking about it. We picked you out of the sea this afternoon. Thought sure you'd gone bye bye. But—"

Rapidly he explained. When he and Juan had upset the ceremony on the pyramid top, and had plunged into the depths below, they had been sucked into the down-stream cavern. They had lost sight of the high priest after they had struck the surface of the pool.

Clinging to driftwood they had floated during a day and a night, passing in the darkness the cenote-valley where Juanes and he had found Langham. They drifted down the underground river to the spot where Frank on the previous day had crawled out to the jungle for that brief pause in his journey.

Instead of floating the remainder of the distance, as Grahame had done, they made their way on foot through the jungle to the coast. Here they had been for several days hoping to signal a fishing craft that might take them to civilization, where they could secure help and return—if it was not too late—to lend assistance to Janice and Billy.

The previous evening, on a crude raft they had constructed of driftwood, they had paddled out to the well of fresh water that bubbled in the sea. They had discovered Grahame floating—his balsa-wood life jacket keeping his head above the water.

At first they had thought him drowned but finally they decided he was unconscious from exhaustion. When the downpour had become steady they sought shelter in this abandoned fishing hut.

Frank told them his story. He explained how vital it was that they secure help and return to the valley in the jungle.

Dawn found them staring soberly at the heaped ashes and coals of their fire. They had exhausted every possibility that involved the three of them returning to the cenote-valley. They realized that they could do nothing by themselves; they must get outside help somehow. Juan told them that during the rainy season the jungle was almost impassable to travel afoot.

At that comment Frank stared thoughtfully through the doorway that was just beginning to show a patch of lightened sky.

During the following two days Greene kept up a continual rapid fire chatter. The little man, Frank realized, was on a verge of a breakdown. The hardships he had gone through were unaccustomed ones.

Moreover he could see that the plight of his employer and the fate of the motion picture party was constantly on his mind and his inane chatter was more to keep his mind from the subject than for personal amusement.

On the morning of the third day, Frank, sitting out at the end of a sandy promontory that jutted into the sea heard a sound of a motor. Visibility was bad. Suddenly, in the north he saw the outline of a plane against the mist. His shout brought his two companions running toward him. The three danced and waved upon the sand.

"He's got to see us!" screamed Greene. "It's the mail plane to Coxumel! There won't be another for days!"

The plane droned on. The three castaways caught up palm fronds and waved them. Greene circled his ragged jacket about his head. The airship kept its course.

Long after the ship disappeared into the southern mist they waved and shouted mechanically. Finally exhausted, they sat upon the sand and stared at each other miserably. They were too discouraged to hunt for the conch shell fish that were exposed at low tide, and which had provided them with scanty nourishment. Once, miles at sea, a white steamer passed northbound. They stared at it hungrily.

It was late in the afternoon when Frank lifted his head. There was an unbelieving look in his eyes. Suddenly Juan imitated him. Greene scrambled to his feet.

"It's a plane! Hear it? It's—"

The plane—it looked like the one that had passed in the morning—and close inshore. Suddenly it was returning. It was flying lower dropped and zoomed. Banking in toward them the engine gave a series of staccato roars—as if it was signalling acknowledgment to the three wild men who danced upon the beach.

It swerved away back toward the south; then banking again it heeled upwind toward them. Waves spurted beneath its pontoons. With spinning propellers it drifted to a stop a few yards out from the beach.

Frank was already in the water swimming toward the craft. He hauled himself up over the pontoons. The helmeted pilot observed him quizzically.

"You three guys have been on my conscience all afternoon. But I was carrying mail. What's on your mind? Say . . . you speak English? . . ."

Frank, gasping for breath, strove to answer. The pilot called out in a louder tone, "You hablo English, Hombre? What's—"

Greene splashing toward them called. "Keep your shirt on, Mister. Sure he speaks English. I invented it, and taught him how. That's Frank Grahame a little out of breath!"

—CONFIRMED BY GREAT DOCTORS EVERYWHERE

Clinics, hospitals acclaim this stronger new yeast that corrects Indigestion, Skin Ills, Loss of Energy* more quickly than any yeast before!

IF YOU SUFFER from constipation . . . if your stomach gets upset . . . if your complexion is poor . . . take 60 seconds to read this—right now!

A famous scientist, connected with a great university, has discovered a new yeast—a wonderful new kind of yeast.

Already it has helped millions . . . and it can help you, too.

It is much stronger than any previous yeast . . . an entirely new "strain" of yeast . . . that acts far more swiftly . . . far more vigorously!

Such eminent physicians as Dr. Georges Rosenthal (in group at right), past president of an important medical society, say, "It gives the quickest results ever seen from yeast in constipation, indigestion and run-down condition!"

XR Yeast speeds up the juices and muscles not only of your intestines, but also of your stomach . . . and that's where doctors say most constipation starts!

With your digestive juices and muscles toned up, your food digests better, is kept softer, and is more easily eliminated.

Your appetite perks up. You can eat more of the things you really like. You lose that "stuffed" feeling . . . that distress after meals.

Can end Cathartic Habit

Soon you should be able to stop taking the harsh cathartics that so often weaken you and make your trouble actually worse.

Those awful headaches usually stop, because you've removed excess poisons that cause them.

Soon your energy comes back . . . you're a more cheerful person . . . more fun for others to be with!

In addition, the new XR Yeast supplies Vitamin A which combats colds. It is also rich in Vitamins B, D and G . . . four vitamins in all!

Don't put off feeling better another day! Don't you want to have lots of pep . . . a keen zest for food . . . a good appearance? Of course you do! Then start eating the new Fleischmann's XR Yeast right now! You can get it at grocers, restaurants, drug stores and soda fountains.

Eat two cakes every day—plain, or in ½ glass of water—preferably a half-hour before meals. Begin to eat it today . . . and keep it up for at least 30 days!

"XR YEAST ACTS FAR FASTER," states Dr. Henri Sidvenin, glandular expert (at left). "Astonishing results . . . It relieved 19 out of 21 cases of severe constipation," reports Dr. Fernand Trémolières, stomach specialist. "My tests showed remarkable results on run-down cases," reports Dr. Joseph Mouchotte, world-famous gynecologist. "Of great medical importance," says Dr. Georges Rosenthal, noted specialist.

The judging will be carried out in four separate age groups, under twelve years, under sixteen years, under twenty-one years and adults.

The entry list is divided into eleven groups—art, natural history, camp and sea crafts, model airplanes and yachts, national exhibits, handicrafts, industrial crafts, photography, cooking, sewing and an essay competition.

The national exhibit will deal with individual or group exhibitions of national handicrafts, costume or art.

Under the heading of handicrafts are included woodwork, ironwork, copperwork, leatherwork, mechanical drawing, pottery and basket weaving. Industrial crafts include stationary models, working models and Meccano models.

The photography section will cater to all branches of amateur photographic work, indoor and outdoor, and will have special classes for pictures that tell a story, and for pictures in color, whether direct or tinted.

Saanich to Have Calgary Delegate

With two committees appointing the action, the Saanich Council yesterday evening appointed Reeve Wilson, Councils to attend the Municipal Conference to be held in Calgary this year to discuss handling of bonded debts and other matters of importance to municipalities.

The cost to the municipality for the delegate will be split. Councillors G. Stanley Sims, Ward Seven, and E. C. Warren, Ward Two, opposed the appointment of a delegate on the grounds that they did not think the municipality could derive much benefit from the meeting in view of the attitude of the provincial government towards the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, and because they thought the problem should be settled in British Columbia alone.

JULIAN HUXLEY TO SPEAK HERE

Famous Author and Scientist Will Lecture at Empress Hotel Jan. 22

Professor Julian S. Huxley, scientist, writer and lecturer, will be in Victoria shortly in the course of a tour of Canada under the auspices of the National Council of Education. Prof. Huxley will speak in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel at 8.15 p.m. on Tuesday, January 22, on the subject of "Ants and Men."

During his stay in the city Prof. Huxley will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Hubard, 650 Langham Street.

Prof. Huxley, educated at Eton and Balliol, Oxford, is a member of the staff of King's College, London. In April of this year he will take the post of secretary of the Royal Zoological Society of London. He edited the biology section of Encyclopedia Britannica, and is the author of more than 100 books, essays and scientific papers.

Market Notes

Two cars of potatoes, one of which should have arrived a week ago, but came to town empty and caused quite a brain twister for amateur detectives on wholesale row, were unloaded yesterday. The potatoes are "Blue Ribbon Gems" from Grand Forks and are of good quality.

The orange market is very firm, and wholesalers report that they cannot get enough to supply the demand. By the end of the week there will be a shortage in certain sizes. This situation has been caused by the recent rainfall in California, which has made orange picking impossible.

The first large shipment of Rome Beauties arrived in the city yesterday. These apples will make their appearance in city stores to-day and should sell fast at a reasonable price. There were some Spitzenburgs in the same shipment from the Okanagan.

The carload of bananas which arrived last week are ripening fast on wholesale row, and should be in local stores soon.

Forced rhubarb continues to arrive steadily.

Wholesalers report that they have to import cauliflower now. The present cold snap spoilt what little was left of the local grown varieties.

A car of Imperial Valley lettuce arrived in Victoria Saturday. This is the finest lettuce that is grown in California.

Green peppers are finished.

California spinach made its appearance in the city on Saturday. This is a small variety and is considered tasty.

A hundred lugs of imported tomatoes were dropped off the boat here last night. These tomatoes are from Mexico. There is no change in price and tomatoes will retail at twenty to twenty-five cents a pound.

The egg market remains steady.

LADYSMITH

Ladysmith, Jan. 16.—A whist drive and dance was held in the Native Sons' Hall Saturday evening under the auspices of the Native Sons and Daughters. Prizewinners were: Ladies, first, Mrs. E. H. Reid; second, Miss Florence Delcourt and Miss Thelma Gregson, tied. Gentlemen, first, H. Orlic; second, D. Moore. Following the games dancing to Atkinson's orchestra was enjoyed.

H. Mathieson, who represented the Lumberworkers of British Columbia in the Trades and Labor delegation which recently visited the Soviet Union to study and report on conditions in that country, will speak in Victoria on January 21, at the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Mathieson will give an outline of his experiences on the tour, and the living and working conditions of the Russians as he saw them. F. Milner, of the B.C. Street Railwaymen's Union, who accompanied the B.C. delegates to the Soviet Union, is also expected to be here on the same date.

Tourists Praise And Criticize

One Wants Beacon Hill Park Kept in Natural State; Others Find Clerks Courteous; Roads Make Women Car Sick

Following are tourists' opinions of Victoria, received by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau in questionnaires sent out to visitors who came to Vancouver Island last summer:

"The accommodations were more than pleasing and we noticed especially the nice and charming hospitality everywhere."

"I find the conditions of your highways very poor."

"Beacon Hill Park attracted me to Victoria. Please keep it in its natural state and do not let Americans or prospective Canadians talk you into up-to-date changes."

"In ten years' visits we have never experienced an act of discourtesy on the island."

"The charm of Victoria is its difference from any other place."

"The opportunity to listen to Dean Quainton and renew acquaintance with Devonshire cream attracted me to Victoria."

"Merchants were very accommodating."

"It was all wonderful, people and all."

"Policemen and street car employees very courteous and agreeable."

"There seemed to be a scarcity of up-to-date camps and cottages."

"Frankly we were disappointed. Your much-talked-of local color was lacking. You should still drive on left side of street and there should be a few red-coated policemen about."

"I like its atmosphere, the people and everything about the island."

"You need better pavement and direction signs."

"We were charmed with the beautiful gardens."

"Highways too much like scenic railways at playgrounds. Women get car sick."

"The clerks in all stores visited are the best we have met. They do not crowd you to buy."

"I enjoyed the Crystal Garden swimming pool."

B.C. TELEPHONE EXTENDS SYSTEM

Cheap Station-to-station Calls to All Points Available January 21

Station-to-station calls, the cheapest class of long-distance telephone service, will become available from Victoria to Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland points on January 21, when the B.C. Telephone Company extends its classified system of long-distance service.

At the present time the classified system, which has come into widespread use in North America, applies on calls to British Columbia points east of Hope and to points in other parts of Canada and in the United States. On January 21 the B.C. Telephone Company will extend the classified system to the remainder of its territory, thereby making the types and hours of long-distance service uniform.

Under the classified system there are four classes of service: Person-to-person, station-to-station, appointment and messenger. Under the station-to-station method the calling party calls a particular telephone, but not a particular party, and pays if someone answers at that telephone, no matter who it is.

Day, evening and night rates will apply on station-to-station calls, while the rates for person-to-person calls will be the same at all hours.

Quicker, Lasting Relief. Big Saving! No Cooking!

Here's an old home remedy your mother knew, but, for cost results, it is still the best thing ever known for severe coughs. Try it once, and you'll never be ill.

It's so lovable at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a bottle, then add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of actually better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And there is positively nothing like it for quick action. You can feel it take hold instantly. It loosens the gum-like phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, and clears the air passages. No cough remedy, at any price, could be more effective.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, known as a healing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. It is guaranteed to please you, or money refunded.

GREAT FEE ON BEAUHARNOIS

Judge Orders R. O. Sweezey to Pay $50,000 to Heirs of Late C. W. Sifton

Canadian Press

Montreal, Jan. 16.—A $50,000 retainer fee for his aid in furthering plans for the development of the Beauharnois Power project was ordered yesterday by Mr. Justice Gordon Mackinnon in Superior Court here, to be paid to heirs of the late C. Winfield Sifton, Hamilton, Ont., lawyer.

The judgment ordered the $50,000, plus interest of $3,972, to be paid by R. O. Sweezey, Montreal, promoter of the power plan, he in turn to be reimbursed by the Beauharnois Power Corporation Limited, successors to the original Beauharnois Syndicate which Sweezey was a member.

An initial retainer fee of $5,000 had been paid to Sifton, the $50,000 fee to be forthcoming on completion of the power development scheme plans and their approval by the Dominion Government.

Sweezey refused to pay on the grounds he had never personally assumed any undertaking with Sifton, that the lawyer died before the power project plans were completed, and that they had not been approved by the Dominion Government.

The Superior Court action to recover the $50,000 was taken by Henry A. Sifton, a brother, and other heirs.

EVIDENCE GIVEN

Evidence was presented during hearing of the case that Sifton had been engaged on behalf of the original Beauharnois Syndicate to aid in securing government approval and to enlist favorable opinion of the public on the scheme.

Following an interview with Sifton by a man named Griffith, sent by Sweezey when he was unable to keep the appointment himself, Sweezey sent the lawyer his personal cheque for $5,000 under cover of a letter bearing the letterhead of R. O. Sweezey, consulting engineer, and written in the first person. Subsequent letters contained the agreement with Sifton, confirming Sifton's engagement and agreeing to the fee.

"Sifton worked continuously and diligently on the proposition up to the day of his death, which took place June 17, 1930," Mr. Justice Mackinnon commented.

"The nature of Sifton's engagement was a peculiar one," the court observed. "It was primarily for the purpose of obtaining the consent of the Dominion Government to the diversion of the water flowing down the St. Lawrence River, between Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis, from its natural channel to an artificial canal to be constructed. This water when diverted was to be used for power purposes.

APPROVAL NEEDED

"Under the Navigable Waters Protection Act of Canada, approval had to be obtained from Ottawa to divert the water for power purposes, and a great deal of spade work had to be done with the federal government and with the public. Such approval was absolutely necessary, for without it the whole scheme could not proceed. The merits of the proposition had to be adequately represented to the public as well as to the ministers of His Majesty's Government, members of Parliament and the officials of the department at Ottawa.

"Sifton had had considerable experience with work of this nature at Ottawa in connection with the Georgian Bay Canal. He was to receive an additional remuneration of $50,000 when the plans were approved, without having to establish how much his work had to do with the passing of the plans."

Sweezey in his defence held that the plans were never definitely approved by the government of Canada and that orders-in-council of March 6, 1929, and June 22, 1929, relating to the project were subsequently set aside by statute.

POWER DELIVERED

The judgment said: "The fact that Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company is now diverting waters from the St. Lawrence River from Lake St. Francis and to Lake St. Louis and that the generators of the company have been in operation delivering power since October, 1932, in the opinion of the court, constitutes a sufficient approval to justify the demand." Sweezey was in consequence ordered to pay the amount sought. At the same time an action in warranty taken by Sweezey was maintained, the court ordering the Beauharnois Power Corporation to indemnify Sweezey in the amount of the judgment rendered against him.

The court held that the contract Sweezey made personally with Sifton was entered into by the former on behalf of the syndicate and that when the syndicate sold out to the corporation October 31, 1929, one of the considerations of the sale was assumption by the Beauharnois Power Corporation of all obligations and liabilities of the syndicate. The initial retainer of $5,000 had been paid out of the syndicate funds, proving knowledge of the other syndicate members, the court maintained.

SOCIALISM AND COMMUNISM

confuse Communism with such historical phenomena as the dictatorship of the proletariat, proletarian revolution, religion of force, etc., is to openly declare lack of knowledge of dialectics and materialistic philosophy; which is the basis of Marxian scientific theory. To practice eclecticism in controversy reveals a poverty of sound principles and is indulged in only by reformists and bourgeois liberals. Hurling epithets and throwing boomerangs contributes something to the gaiety of those who enjoy slap-stick and pie-throwing comedy, yet it has its uses in the general scheme of things because political platforms at least become the repository of the missiles.

Had the Communists in this locality devised ever so good a plan to expose the reformism and potential Fascist character of the C.C.F. platform and creed so that it would be plain for all to see, it would not have effected so thorough an expose as the controversy lately indulged in by two of the leaders. While one openly declared his opposition to the leadership and orthodoxy of the C.C.F., the other took a violent anti-pathetic stand against a world-famous exponent of Socialism, whose works and words are accepted in all strata of society as worthy of consideration, and himself declared for the dogma of this mushroom outgrowth of the class struggle, opportunist and reformist in character. The comparisons cited by this alleged friend of Soviet Russia and opponent of Communism are, to say the least, ludicrous, and his statement that the labor element of Britain has obtained long ago all the benefits for which labor is struggling in vain in the United States is consistent with his lack of knowledge of what the proletarian revolution means.

Probably it would be futile to point out that Communism is a state of social life, and that the proletarian revolution and the dictatorship of the proletariat are transitory steps toward the fulfilment of Marx's theory. The class struggle cannot be obscured by phrases, nor can the inevitable change to a new order be furthered by NRAs, AAAs or Bennett demagogy.

I wonder how long the C.C.F. will be able to call Jimmy Simpson its own?

GRETA GARBO AT CAPITOL

Two experts in the art of screen romance make their first appearance together in Garbo's latest starring vehicle, "The Painted Veil," filmization of the gripping Somerset Maugham novel, which is now at the Capitol Theatre.

One, of course, is the incomparable Garbo. The other is the brilliant English actor, Herbert Marshall, who is being demanded these days by all of the greater stars for their leading man.

The story tells of the eldest daughter of an Austrian professor who, refusing to marry the man picked for her by her parents, arouses her mother's ire. To escape her unpleasant surroundings she marries Dr. Fane, a young English medical scientist.

DOMINION THEATRE

What the stark realities of life do to the hordes of young men who, filled with high hopes and confidence, are poured forth from colleges and high schools every year, forms the theme of a most powerful drama of life to-day, the First National production "Gentlemen Are Born," which is the feature attraction at the Dominion Theatre to-day.

To adequately present this unusual drama, First National has provided an equally unusual cast of young film stars. Franchot Tone, who has the leading role, is assisted by Margaret Lindsay, Joan Muir and Ann Dvorak, three of the screen's outstanding actresses. Ross Alexander, Nick Foran and Robert Light, all leading juvenile actors of the Broadway stage, make their film debuts in this picture.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Watching a chimpanzee prance about in a tree may be fun for spectators in a picture theatre—but the Simians are no picnic for the assistant director.

One of the biggest difficulties in safeguarding a chimpanzee's health. They are as delicate as new born babies and have to be coddled like youngsters.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Anna Sten, glamorous stage and screen star from Germany has the leading role in Zola's great drama "Nana," which is now at the Columbia Theatre.

Since Fraulein Sten came to America her fame has spread to all corners of the continent, largely because of her splendid acting in this picture. She now ranks with one of the great of Hollywood film firmament.

PROMISES MADE BY BENNETT

Tells Montreal Audience Parliament To-morrow Will Hear Reform Proposals

Canadian Press

Montreal, Jan. 16—Steps he proposes to take to secure reform will be outlined in the Speech from the Throne to be delivered before Parliament to-morrow, Premier R. B. Bennett announced at a meeting in the Atwater Market here yesterday evening. Proposals to be made would include minimum wage laws and a maximum working week.

Mr. Bennett returned to Ottawa early to-day after his direct appeal to Montreal for their support of his programme.

He asked the co-operation of "all people of good-will, regardless of race or creed," in his efforts to reform the economic system and adjust defects in the social system.

Mr. Bennett had no intention or desire to wreck the capitalist system, but declared he wished only to make it "decent and clean."

MINISTERS THERE

On the platform with Mr. Bennett were more than half his Cabinet, the occasion being a reception arranged by the Young Conservative Club, with Minister of Marine Alfred Duranleau the official host. Other ministers taking part in the programme included Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Railways R. J. Manion, and Postmaster-General Arthur Sauve.

NO RETURN FORESEEN

The old order of things could never return, Mr. Bennett declared, and he cited as illustrative of the changed conditions, five circumstances existing in the economic system. These were lack of control of the profit motive, breakdown of international trade, collapse of the gold standard, disappearance of "the open market place" and the lost flexibility of the system by which balances were automatically achieved.

"I invite you to join with me in the great campaign for reform, for without reform we die," he said.

FIVE YEARS OF TROUBLE

Some would say, Mr. Bennett observed, "Canada is coming back all right. Why is this man bothering us now?"

The reason, he went on, was that he had lived long enough to know. He had lived through five years of unprecedented difficulties. He wanted nobody to ever have to go through it again.

Others would say, "The system is the finest in the world." These Mr. Bennett would have survey the conditions of want and unemployment throughout the Dominion. After outlining his five illustrations of changed economic conditions, the Prime Minister declared the system had broken down.

"What do you want in its place?" he asked. Communism? Socialism? Or do you want safeguards and regulations such as will make the system your servant instead of your master? That is the issue."

Some of the greatest "capitalists and industrialists" had written him their endorsement of a change which would put more humanity in the economic system, the Prime Minister said.

Farmers' Credit Plan Discussed

W. R. Kinsman, senior official receiver in Saskatchewan under the Farmers' Credit Arrangement Act, passed at the last session of Parliament, is expected here to-morrow to confer with receivers under the act for Vancouver Island.

Mr. Kinsman met eleven of the thirteen British Columbia receivers in Vancouver yesterday and discussed procedure under the act.

The measure has not been used to the same extent in British Columbia as on the prairies, but some applications have been made, it was learned.

A. C. FLUMERFELT ESTATE PROBATE

Dr. Ridewood Forces Action as Executors Renounce Office

Order for the administration of the estate of A. C. Flumerfelt, a former B.C. Minister of Finance, director of International Coal and Coke, and head of the Hastings Shingle Manufacturing Co. of Vancouver, was issued to-day by Mr. Justice R. S. Robertson of the Supreme Court in favor of Dr. R. E. Ridewood.

H. J. Davis, counsel for Dr. Ridewood, explained he was suing on behalf of other creditors against the executors, Mrs. Lola Bunnell, Mr. Flumerfelt's former wife, now living in San Francisco, and Fred A. Wylie of Vancouver. Dr. Ridewood asks payment of his surgeon's bill for $600.

Mr. Flumerfelt died on November, 1930. Order for probate was granted in April, 1931, but letters were never issued because the duties were not paid. In July, 1933, both Mrs. Bunnell and Mr. Wylie renounced their office of executors, throwing the whole thing over without any settlement with the creditors, who so far have been unable to get any action on their claims.

Mr. Flumerfelt's estate was credited with assets of $62,320, chiefly securities, including 470 shares of Canada's Limited, $22,400; sixty shares of Canadian Bank of Commerce, $16,100; and 300 shares of Hastings Shingle Manufacturing Co. (in liquidation), $25,000.

Against the $62,320 assets, however, the executors found liabilities totaling $185,000, including $27,000 to the B.A. Securities; $93,700 net after deductions to J. J. Warren, of Toronto, president of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, on account of loans; and $97,350 to the Canadian Bank of Commerce on account of guarantees, including $12,597 for the Consolidated Securities Limited and $22,391 accrued interest on the Bank of Commerce loans.

Mr. Justice Robertson ordered that R. L. Cox, official administrator, should be appointed receiver of the estate. The fees of the solicitors who acted for the executors up to the time of the remuneration is to be borne by the estate.

The Oakland Parent-Teacher Association will meet to-morrow evening in the school auditorium at 8 o'clock. The mayor and members of the city council have been invited to attend.

Mrs. Logan was born in London, Ontario, and lived in Calgary for many years before coming to Victoria twenty years ago. She was predeceased by her husband in Calgary in 1912 and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, with whom she resided, and Mrs. Floyd Gossell, of Highgate, Ontario.

WANT FLOAT IN HARBOR

Chamber of Commerce Committee Recommends Facilities for Fishermen

After a survey of locations from the Outer Wharf to the Point Ellice Bridge yesterday, the Chamber of Commerce special committee looking into establishment of a free landing float for fish boats, brought in a resolution suggesting the construction of such a float in the Inner Harbor in front of the Causeway.

The recommendation, passed after Lincoln Smith, chairman of the special committee, had reported on the survey, was moved by Major H. C. Holmes and seconded by Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins as follows:

"That your committee is satisfied that the provision of a free float for the accommodation of small pleasure and business craft would be of substantial financial benefit to the City of Victoria, as each of the various business craft would spend from $300 to $500 during the winter. Your committee believes that such facilities would soon attract to Victoria several stores of the fishing fleet, which now amount to many hundreds, and your committee has examined all possible sites, and recommends that the Causeway is the best place for such a float, being central and in other ways advantageous, and that the harbor lots owned by the city, situated immediately south of Johnson Street bridge, be selected as the most best location. Your committee further believes that ample space should be provided at the Causeway for the harboring of visiting launches and yachts, and the proper policing regulations be passed and enforced."

The survey was conducted by Lincoln Smith, Reeve R. W. Mayhew, Alderman Hawkins, Major H. C. Holmes, Major M. Kirkpatrick Crockett, Captain George Kirkendale and F. H. Patridge.

PREPAYMENTS FORGE AHEAD

Prepayment of taxes forged ahead this week, reaching a point yesterday about $12,000 ahead of the totals for the corresponding period last year.

The total prepayments received up to yesterday amounted to $181,400 against $168,882 on January 15, 1934. The figure was also above the similar period for 1933, the peak year, according to computations. There was no entry on January 15, 1933, that being a Sunday, but on January 14 of that year the figures were only $171,861.

Interest allowed on prepayments this year amount to $6,653.42 against $6,227.42 for the similar period in 1934.

The increase in the number meeting the levy in advance was regarded by city treasury officials as an appreciation of the sound investment offered property holders in Victoria through the prepayment system.

Under the current arrangement, the city allows an interest rate of 5 per cent per annum from the date of prepayment to September 1.

POTATO SCHEME EFFECTIVE SOON

Mainland Marketing Plan Passes Board Here; Island Growers Interested

After some weeks of negotiation between the growers and the Provincial Marketing Board, the scheme to control marketing of potatoes on the lower mainland will be ready for cabinet approval shortly, it was understood at the Parliament Buildings to-day.

One last-minute change in the scheme will be to limit voting powers on regulations to farmers actually owning the property on which the produce is grown. This, it was explained, would prevent domination of the industry by Orientals or others who are merely tenants.

Vancouver Island growers are interested in the scheme to the extent that a system of co-operation between the island and mainland producers is planned. While the details of this arrangement have not yet been made public, it is proposed to have a working agreement under which the island board will handle potatoes from the mainland sold on the island market and the mainland board will act for the island group where produce moves to that market.

Mrs. Frank Paulding Has Bereavement

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at New Westminster, from S. Brewis and Sons Funeral Parlors, after which the remains will be laid at rest in Fraser Cemetery.

SCOTTISH TO SEND SECTION

Detachment From Machine Gun Company of First Battalion to Go to Sarcee

CAPTAIN W. OLIVER

The machine gun company of the First Battalion, the Canadian Scottish Regiment, have apparently won official recognition of their efficiency. This summer for the first time the kilted unit will send a detachment to the annual machine gun concentration at Camp Sarcee near Calgary.

The machine gun school held at the Alberta camp in the first days of August will unite sections from all the main infantry units in Military District No. 11.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The machine gun company—or in the new terminology, the support company—of the Scottish had a highly successful season last summer, carrying off the May Day Shield from the 11th Machine Gun Battalion for the first time since its presentation over ten years ago, and also defeating the specialist unit in range tests.

The company is at present under the command of Captain W. Oliver, with Captain W. Lambert as second in command. In the summer the company spends a considerable amount of time in actual firing on Meale Range.

The unit still has several vacancies for recruits. To be eligible for the trip to Sarcee they should enlist if possible before the end of this month, in order to complete the necessary training before August.

SELLS DRINK FOR A CLOCK

But Clock Was Stolen; Youth Appeals Jail Sentence of One Year

The Court of Appeal to-day dismissed the appeal against conviction of Alex York, sentenced by County Court Judge Lennox of Vancouver to one year in Oakalla for being in possession of stolen goods.

York, a clean-cut looking man in his twenties whose young wife was in court, told the justices he had been out of work for a year and rather than go to a relief camp had accepted a job as helper in a hostelling establishment, eking out a living for himself and wife. One day a customer dropped into his place and wanted a drink but had no money. York testified he accepted a clock which could be purchased for $2 as security for a drink.

The clock was found to have been stolen and York was arrested, tried and convicted. He has served two months of his sentence.

Chief Justice Macdonald asked him if he did not wish to appeal against sentence and told him he could appear before one of the judges during recess for this purpose. The court will hear this appeal at the afternoon sitting.

In the case of Tatroff vs. Ray the court decided the whole costs of appeal should be taxed on a basis of two-thirds appellant and one-third respondent.

The Nicola-Wayside injunction appeal is proceeding.

NOT READY FOR SAYWARD ROAD

Extension Sought by Island Residents Would Cost $150,000

The Department of Public Works will not be able to extend the Island Highway from Campbell River to Sayward district this year, it was intimated this morning.

J. E. Armishaw of Sayward was in the city to-day to meet the minister and urge the completion of this link, as a matter of keeping faith with settlers who went into the district.

It was explained construction of about twenty-seven miles of road is required. This would cost roughly $150,000, which cannot now be provided.

FUNERAL TO-MORROW

The funeral of John T. McIntosh, who passed away on Monday at his home, 1423 Lang Street, will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the chapel of the Sands Mortuary Ltd. Rev. Dr. Clem Davis will officiate and the remains will be laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

CHILD SAVED BY COMPANION

Doreen Ponsford Shows Presence of Mind in Rescuing Joyce Exton

Remarkable presence of mind was shown by eight-year-old Doreen Ponsford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Ponsford, Glanford Avenue, who saved a young companion from the icy waters of the old municipal quarry in Saanich on Sunday.

Doreen was responsible for rescuing Joyce Exton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Exton, Glanford Avenue, while they were out walking with two companions.

As the children walked passed the old quarry in which there was about four feet of water, Joyce slipped on the muddy bank and fell in. Doreen told Joyce's brother to go for help, and while he had gone she found a long stick with which she pulled Joyce to safety on the bank before assistance came.

The younger girl was taken home where she was tucked in a warm bed, little the worse for her experience, but thoroughly frightened.

Doreen, meanwhile, has received the praises of her school chums and her elders, and, what means more, she is a heroine in the eyes of Joyce.

USE FILMS FOR B.C. PUBLICITY

Movies Will Be Taken to More Widely Publicize "Evergreen Playground"

Motion pictures to widely publicize the tourist attractions of British Columbia and the Pacific northwest will be taken and shown in theatres throughout the North American continent under the programme of the Evergreen Playground Association of Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, states Harry Rosenbaum, moving picture director of Vancouver, who is at the Empress Hotel to-day.

The Evergreen Playground Association is the title of the newly-formed organization of leading publicity men of Victoria, Vancouver, Seattle, Portland, Bellingham and Tacoma, which now replaces the Puget Sounders and British Columbians Associated. Mayor Leeming of Victoria is the president of the new publicity organization.

The new association is commencing its activities with a $30,000 fund for advertising the attractions of the Pacific Northwest in California and other sections of the United States.

Apart from newspaper and magazine advertising, the association plans to make use of the radio and motion pictures to bring the scenic advantages of the Evergreen Playground to the attention of the holiday public.

GOLD PUBLICITY

The motion picture, "Magic of Gold," which illustrates the growth and development of the mining industry in British Columbia and recently shown in Victoria theatres, has been booked by Empire Films Ltd., and will be shown by that agency throughout Canada and later in England, Mr. Rosenbaum states. He spent three weeks taking this 1,100-ft. feature in the Cariboo, at Bridge River and along the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Mr. Rosenbaum has just returned from a trip to New York, and he states that a great deal more color is going into motion picture productions. This phase of the industry has been retarded by the costly color processes in the past, but research is now overcoming the difficulty.

FUR COMPANY HISTORY TOLD

Charles H. French Recounts Early Activities of Hudson's Bay Company

The history of the Hudson's Bay Company in its development of the fur industry in Canada as well as the keen competition between it and the Northwest Traders, was recounted to members of the Round Table Club at their dinner in Spoedie's Cafe yesterday evening by Charles H. French, retired official of the company.

Mr. French outlined the formation of the Hudson's Bay Company and its early activities in the new world. He sketched the pioneer work in the field and then turned to the battle for supremacy between it and the Northwest Traders, telling how each was reduced to the verge of bankruptcy before amalgamation took place.

The Hudson's Bay Company had, through its aggressiveness and the friendly relations it enjoyed with the Indians, finally prevailed in the field.

He paid a tribute to the company for its preservation work in the fur industry for Canada.

Dr. T. W. A. Gray thanked the speaker for his address.

R. H. Lyons, president of the club, gave a five-minute talk on the chemical industry.

MERCY FLIGHT MADE IN NORTH

Barnhill left here Monday night in a ski-mounted plane of the McGee Airways, shortly after an amateur radio operator had flashed an urgent message to the signal corps radio station here.

He flew first to McGrath, arriving at 12.10 a.m., landing safely by the aid of gasoline flares set out by Miss Helen Koenig, eighteen-year-old native Alaskan girl mechanic. She helped him refuel, according to word received here to-day, and fifteen minutes later Barnhill took off across snowy mountains and valleys for old Anderson.

PLEAD GUILTY AT SOVIET TRIAL

Moscow, Jan. 16.—Leo Kamenoff, Gregory Zinoviev and seventeen persons associated with them, who went on trial Monday at Leningrad for participating in the counter-revolutionary group which inspired the murder of Sergei Kirov, all pleaded guilty yesterday.

Kamenoff, Zinoviev and seven others of lower prominence than the two famous old Bolsheviks were charged, according to the indictment made public yesterday, with participating in a Moscow secret counter-revolutionary center.

as Los Angeles. There is deep snow in the mountains and sharp frosts in the Sacramento Valley.

Vancouver, Jan. 16.—Vancouver dug itself out to-day from an eight-inch blanket of fresh snow and wondered when King Winter would relax his interest in the west coast of Canada, usually blessed with mild weather.

The overnight fall brought the total snowfall since the city was mantled in white on Christmas Day to 24.5 inches, the heaviest fall within such a short space of time in recent years. Many motorists have stored their automobiles temporarily and traffic has been slowed considerably but otherwise the snow has caused little inconvenience.

Despite the wintry appearance of the city, the mercury has not fallen below the freezing point within the past twenty-four hours and the maximum has been 35 above.

Canada Withdraws From Futile Davis Cup Tennis Campaign

THE SPORTS MIRROR

SPORTS fans are going to do a lot of gagging at a quartette of attempted comebackers during the coming year, hoping against the improbability that they will see the old saying, "They never do," refuted.

The four we have reference to are Helen Wills Moody, Max Schmeling, Lefty Grove and Glenna Collett Vare.

Mrs. Moody will essay to regain the glory she held so long as No. 1 woman of the tennis courts in the United States; Dar Schinger, with a dropping stone in his bout with Steve Hamas first confronting him, will be after a title bout with Max Baer; Mose Grove is shooting for another season like 1930 and 1931; and Glenna Collett, who started her comeback last season, again will be after that top spot in women's golf she held so long.

Probably the most difficult of the trails back through the wilderness of has-beens will be that trodden by Mrs. Moody—and this statement is rendered despite George Lott's assertion that all Helen has to do to win back her crown is to toss her racquet onto the court.

The main reason for the failure of a defeated athlete to climb the ladder again is inactivity after loss of a title. Of course, age has a lot to do with it, but in the main the idleness indulged in by a toppled idol does the most evil.

The little girl with flying pigtails who set the courts afire some years ago is now a married woman. She is somewhat older than when she was at her peak, and has been idle for almost a year and a half.

Of course, it is no fault of Mrs. Moody that she hasn't been swinging a racquet. After that memorable U.S. singles tilt against Helen Jacobs, when she defaulted the match and U.S. title, due to a serious back injury, "Little Poker Face" was forbidden by her physician to touch a paddle.

Mrs. Moody was absolutely correct there. There is exactly a year and a half of inactivity standing as a gap between now and winning back her title. There are several other factors which point to fair Helen's failure to come back. One is the stamina that tennis takes out of you.

The game probably requires more continual exertion and strain on a human physique than any other. It requires top speed all during the playing career of an individual, and once top speed commences to slow down, the standing of a player slows down with it.

Mrs. Moody was at her peak in 1931, when she won the U.S. woman's singles crown. In 1932 she didn't compete; in 1933 she defaulted to Helen Jacobs; and again, in 1934, failed to compete, her injury keeping her out of tennis.

It is improbable that she will be able to regain her peak game of 1931 during the coming season—and if she can't get back up there on top this year, it isn't likely that she'll ever turn the trick.

Another stumbling block in her path is the fact that two or three youngsters have appeared in the picture who are likely to discourage her before she goes very far this season.

Among these are Carolin Babcock and Alice Marble, west coast girls, and Sarah Palfrey, from Boston. All three of these teams have demonstrated championship calibre in the last two months, and all have been able to make the going rough for Helen Jacobs, greatest title-holder.

At her best, Mrs. Moody could have pulled a Max Baer stunt and taken Lilly Yee of the first ranking women in one afternoon. But she's far from her best now—and we'd hate to see her get out there on the courts and, in one disastrous match, detract something from that glorious record of hers, which includes seven victories in the U.S. singles up to 1932.

Another English football league manager who apparently is not finding things easy is David Pratt, of Clapton Orient. There have been rumors going the rounds that Mr. Pratt may even leave the Orient. He has a contract which carries him to the end of the season, but it thought in some quarters that he will vacate the managerial chair before then. F. W. Griffith, chairman of Clapton Orient, denied that Pratt would be leaving the club owing to differences with the directorate.

"There is not truth in it," said Griffith. "There has sometimes been controversy at board meetings, but there never is even in most club meetings. Perhaps the arguments have been heated at times, but they have always ended up alright."

Pratt himself refuted what the media. "If there have been differences I have nothing for publication," he said. "Clapton Orient has a big future provided the right support is forthcoming."

The National Billiard Association in the U.S. is turning on the heat . . . In the form of $300,000, which will be used to advertise its efforts to convert 5,000,000 players to the game . . . Pat Malone, the pitcher for St. Louis Cubs got in the deal with the Chicago Cubs last fall, was known as Bill Wansner during his letter professional fight career . . . Bessie Cheetet, who is to receive his medals shortly in the mayor, comes up with the Cubs after hailing with the Philadelphia Athletics. It was of the best champions turned out by the Philadelphia Athletics . . . He whipped two eight grade girls and by the time he was through, Bessie was Queen of Diamond Dust.

Will Send Stai Team To Britain For Competition

Canadian Association Figures Dominion's Players Will Derive More Benefit

Touring Players To Leave June 10

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 16. — Canada said good-bye to futile Davis Cup competition to-day, and laid plans for sending the country's best tennis players to Great Britain, where they will see a good deal more of first-class tennis than they ever would in getting eliminated in a cup play by the United States.

President Philip D. Lyons of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association announced yesterday evening that plans were virtually complete for sending a team to Britain early in June. The players will compete at Wimbledon, probably in English tournaments, certainly in three team matches in Scotland and return at the end of August.

Lyons gave no indication of the number of players to be taken overseas. Tennis authorities have long pondered the problem of getting the outstanding stars abroad, but they never got past the financial end of the question. Lyons did not say either how this had been solved.

TEAM CANDIDATES

Canada's Davis Cup team in 1934 included Walter Martin and Gilbert Nunns, Toronto, and Marcel Rainville and Laird Watt, Montreal. These four and Bobby Murray, Montreal, are likely to be the strongest contenders for positions on this non-Davis Cup team.

Method of selection was not made known. National rankings for 1934 have not yet been announced, though Rainville is certain to head the list. The Montreal veteran won the Canadian singles as well as the eastern Canadian and Ontario titles last year.

Murray won the Quebec championship.

Martin, No. 1 ranked player in 1934, was humbled by both Rainville and Murray, but the giant Toronto lawyer has given no hint that he intends retiring. Neither has Nunns, who played some of his best tennis last year.

Gene Byall, and perhaps the veteran Jack Wright, Vancouver, and Eddie McCrath, Winnipeg, are possible contenders.

The team is scheduled to leave Montreal on June 10, playing at Wimbledon from June 22 to July 6. A Canada-Scotland match has been arranged to take place during the Scottish championships, July 23-27. The team will play eastern Scotland at Edinburgh, July 29-30, and western Scotland at Glasgow, July 31 and Aug. 1.

New York, Jan. 16.—Regret at the withdrawal of Canada this year from North American zone play for the Davis Cup was expressed yesterday evening by President Walter Merrill Hall of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

When informed that President P. D. Lyons of the Canadian Tennis Association had announced the Dominion would not compete because the date for the Canadian-United States tie had not been set back, Hall said: "Playing of the Canadian-United States series at a later date than usual would be unfair to the ultimate survivor of American zone play."

Hall emphasized it was not a question of Canada defeating the United States or vice-versa.

"The factor we must consider first," he said, "is the ultimate winning of the Davis Cup. The team representing the Americas in the finals must be accorded every consideration."

ONTARIO BODY MAY STEP OUT

Threaten Withdrawal From Canadian Lacrosse If Orillia Suspended

Toronto, Jan. 16.—The advisability of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association remaining in the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association will come up for consideration at the next O.A.L.A. meeting should the Orillia Terriers club be wrongfully suspended by the parent body it was learned here yesterday evening.

Seeking to learn just what steps the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association proposes taking in regard to the suspension of the Terriers, President Fred Waghorne Jr., of the Ontario Lacrosse Association has written president Dan McKenzie of the parent body.

In his letter Waghorne asks for a definite ruling on the matter. Terriers were suspended after winning the Canadian championship for taking part in a post season series in Vancouver.

New Westminster, Jan. 16.—Orillia Terriers have been suspended by the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association, pending the latter body is not contemplating any further action at present, president Dan McKenzie of the Dominion Association said yesterday evening.

"I have received a personal letter from Mr. Waghorne," president McKenzie said, "asking for a definite ruling on the matter. The ruling has already been made. At the annual meeting of the C.A.L.A. following the Minto Cup final at Barrie, Ont., last year, the Terriers were informed that if they took part in a contemplated exhibition series at Vancouver they would automatically be suspended. That suspension still holds good as far as the Canadian Association is concerned."

ROSS HANDED SUSPENSION

Lightweight Champion in Bad With New York Dukes for Not Meeting Ambers

New York, Jan. 16.—The New York State Athletic Commission decided yesterday that Barney Ross, lightweight champion, can not fight boys until he defends his title against Lou Ambers, youthful aspirant from Herkimer, N.Y. This made it unanimous, inasmuch as Ross decided some time ago he wouldn't fight here anyway.

The bald Texan, for the commission's action was Ross's failure to defend his lightweight crown within the six months grace allowed every champion. As a matter of fact, Barney hasn't defended his title in sixteen months, not since he whipped Tony Canzoneri here in September, 1933.

"Ross is suspended until such time as he signs affidavit of agreement for a match with Ambers," announced General John J. Phelan, chairman of the board. "Furthermore, we will also suspend Frankie Klick, San Francisco, for fighting Ross down in Miami, January 28. No boxer licensed here is allowed to have any truck with a suspended boxer."

Tilden Peer of All in Matter Of Speed for Tennis Service

As late as four years ago Big Bill sent ball across net at speed of 222 feet a second; Big Lester Stoefen has swiftest service now making pellet travel 193 feet per second.

Associated Press

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—Age and speed—the twain that never meet—once again have proved they travel opposite paths, so far as big Bill Tilden and his "thunder" tennis service of other years is concerned.

For, ever since the "old master" entered his fortieth year four years ago, his delivery began to lose its whim, and in his place Lester "Little Butter" Stoefen has arisen as the "speed demon service set, battering the efforts of any of the four leading professional racquet wielders of the United States.

Facts and figures concerning the delivery of Tilden, Stoefen, Allan Mercer Vines and George Lott were compiled by Dr. J. P. Strawinski, local statistician, with a special timing device, when the four appeared here recently on their cross-country tour.

INTERESTING FACTS

From his findings, Dr. Strawinski determined:

That Lott's limit is a mere 150 feet a second and 110 miles an hour.

But that neither Stoefen or Vines, with all their present speed, would have been a match for big Bill as late as four years ago, when he hammered his service across the net at 222 feet a second—a service smash that traveled 151.3 miles an hour.

Bend-Lake Hill game should prove interesting, as the visitors are reported to be carrying a bunch of strong players and should be strong opposition for the local.

Savard said he "might listen to a proposition," but declared he would not "go looking" for the Braves, who are without a field to play on this year.

EDMONTON IN HOCKEY WIN

Defeat Portland 3 to 2 to Climb Out of Cellar in Northwest League

Edmonton, Jan. 16.—Portland Buckaroos headed for Calgary and the second game of their prairie visit to-day, leaving behind them a jubilant crew of Eskimos who found themselves out of the Northwest Hockey League cellar for the first time as a result of a 3 to 2 victory over the Bucs yesterday evening.

It was amateur night for the Eskimo fans as four youthful puck-chasers just turned to the moneyed ranks, sailed down on Andy Aitkenhead and gave the Portland goalie the hottest night since the one two weeks ago when he made his return debut to coast hockey in a 6 to 6 overtime battle against Vancouver Lions in the Rose City.

Bill Carse, former Edmonton junior, sent his club off to a flying start when he found the Portland net for two goals in the opening period, counting the first on a pass from Al Mercer, former British Columbia senior pure, and netting the second on a solo rush.

TIE UP SCORE

The Bucs fought back to even terms in the second session as Peaches Lyons and Ralph Blyth led the victory attack. Blyth carried the puck into Edmonton territory and passed to Lyons who slid it over for Rusty Hammerling to bat past Herb Rheaume in the prairie nets for the first Portland goal.

Max Sutherland got as far as the Portland defence, then drove a hard shot goalward. Aitkenhead stopped it but the puck bounced out of his reach and as he dove to push it out of danger it glanced on to Nick Mickarta's stick and into the open Portland net.

Portland — Aitkenhead; Arbour, Fraser; Evans; Coupen, Neille, Blythe, Hammerling, Lyons, Munson.

Edmonton — Rheaume; Mercer, Redpath; Carse; Stanfed, Gagne, Cam Smith, Sutherland, Mickarta Townsend.

Toronto-Boston Bolster Margins

Defeat Chicago and St. Louis, Respectively, to Consolidate Positions at Heads of Major Hockey Divisions; Detroit Wings Beat Maroons

Tommy Gorman's Montreal Maroons were just as far away from the Canadian division leadership as ever to-day as they bemoaned a 1 to 0 overtime defeat they suffered from Detroit yesterday evening, while Toronto Leafs were beating Chicago Black Hawks 2 to 2.

Toronto's gain and their loss left Maroons twelve points behind the team that has never been headed since the National League opened last November, and looks now to be certain of finishing on top and qualifying for the league title series.

While Leafs were consolidating their spot at the Canadian division top, Boston were doing the same in the American section. With two goals in the last minute they won 3 to 2 from St. Louis Eagles in Boston yesterday evening, which put them three points up on Clem Loughlin's world champion Hawks.

RANGERS IN TIE

Red Wings' win over Maroons gave them four points advantage on New York Rangers in the American division cellar, who tied 1 to 1 with Americans.

Jack Adams' stunt of replacing Herb Lewis on his first line with Johnny Sorrell proved a wise move. Sorrell got the only goal of the Montreal affair in the second minute of overtime, after John Ross Roach and Alex Connell had halted the opposing marksmen for three periods.

Cooney Weiland, Larry Aurie, Sorrell's mates on the new line, made the play and were given assists. The high-scoring centre cut down the ice and slipped a pass to Aurie, who bounced a hard shot off Connell's pads. Alex cleared too far out, and Sorrell swooped in, picked up the puck, and drew Connell out of position to score.

Charlie Conacher scored the winning goal at Chicago and went two points up on his teammate, Harvey Jackson, as leader of the league in scoring. Hawks took a lead in the first period with goals by Paul Thompson and Bill Kendall after Joe Primeau had notched the game's first marker.

AMERICANS LUCKY

Americans barely escaped defeat several times in their clash with Rangers and were lucky to skate off with the tie. Earl Seibert, Ranger defenceman, gave them the lead into in the first period and Lorne Carr tied it up in the second. Dave Schriner and Art Chapman assisting.

Babe Seibert and Red Beattie engineered the two last-minute goals that gave Bruins their win over the luckless St. Louis Eagles, who were playing four men against five at the time. Johnny Gagnon and Syd Howe were given majors for battling and then Bill Dowley was sent off for tripping Marty Barry.

Seibert scored the first goal on Beattie's pass and Beattie got the second with Charlie Sand's help. The Gagnon-Howe affair was the second fight of the exciting game, Eddie Shore and Irvin Frew starting another scrap in the second period.

St. Louis, who deserved a better return for their good night's play, came from behind three times to tie the score. After Bert McInenly tallied in the first period, a fellow Ottawan, Howe, nullified it early in the second. Nels Stewart scored late in the second and Carl Voss evened it up in the third. Shore got a goal and Frankie Finnigan tied it again before Boston's last-minute brace decided the issue.

All Canadian Doubles Teams Eliminated in Midwinter Play at Pasadena

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 16.—All of Canada's doubles teams were eliminated in the first four rounds of the Southern California mid-winter lawn bowling tournament here yesterday before the attack of a strong California contingent.

Only two singles players of the invading group gained the quarter-finals yesterday. These were Bob Temple and Davis, Vancouver.

Davey and Flemming were last of the British Columbia players to fall to-day, going down in the fourth round before Hooper and Wheaton, of Redlands, Cal., 15 to 12, in a close battle. Gray and Smith were eliminated in the third round by Wutzetch and Sweet, Long Beach, 18 to 9, after defeating McGee and Hunter of Los Angeles in the second, 18 to 9.

KENNEDIES BEATEN

Davey and Flemming had advanced to the fourth round at the expense of Walker and Stimson, Los Angeles, 19 to 16. The team of Miller and Kenmuir, Vancouver, lost early to Frost and Smith, Oakland, 20 to 18. Wutzetch and Sweet went into the third round by outscoring Dewar and Phillips, Vancouver, 25 to 16.

Seaton and Stewart, Vancouver, were beaten by Moser and Scott, Pasadena, 15 to 13, and Godfe and Bryson, Vancouver, lost to Dalvell and Scott, Oakland, 12 to 10, in another close match of the day.

Canada has another innings to-day, when its players will rally around in the opening play of the triples events in an effort to stop the landslide of California victories. All finals will be played Saturday.

HAMMOND IN FINE STAND

Puts on 116 for Marylebone Cricketers Against Trinidad Players

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Jan. 16.—Piling up a score of 348 in the four hours their first innings lasted, the touring Marylebone Cricket Club yesterday left Trinidad's eleven a stiff uphill task in their three-day match. Before stumps were drawn, however, the homesters were able to score sixty for the loss of two wickets.

England's Wally Hammond was the day's shining light as he set up a brilliant 116 in little more than an hour.

CANADIAN STARS

Grant, a former resident of Nova Scotia, had little trouble holding the other English batsmen in check with the help of Learie Constantine, just back from a successful season in English county cricket. He took the first wicket—D. C. Townsend's—for five runs, while Captain R. E. S. Wyatt went out not long after to Tangshoon for 29, off Constantine.

Peaty Hendren followed him to the wicket and had scored twelve when play was adjourned.

Twice—one at 79 and again at 410—Hammond offered chance catches that were missed.

Captain G. C. Grant, brother of Ralph, was leading the West Indians. The other players were: C. A. Roach, Constantine, Achong, Maynard, Tangshoon, Hinds, Croft, Agard, Merry and Daly. M.C.C. sent out the following team: Wyatt, Hendren, Leslie Ames, Hammond, M. Leyland, E. H. T. Robins, Townsend, Smith, Farimond, Bowlby, Price and Allen.

The match will continue three days.

Detroit Olympics Win Over London

London, Ont., Jan. 16. — Manager Donnie Hughes, the guiding hand behind Detroit Olympics, has demonstrated he possesses no mean ability when it comes to pushing his gang in the International Hockey League. Yesterday evening they whipped London 4 to 3 to gain undisputed possession of second place.

Lott and Stoefen Make Pro Tennis Debut

Bill Tilden proved he still was the king of tennis attractions when he packed Madison Square Garden in New York for the opening of the indoor professional season and the debut in the pro ranks of George Lott and Lester Stoefen. Paired with Vines (on back court), Tilden helped win a grueling seventy-three-game five set match against Lott and Stoefen.

Ted Cox Goes Berserk During Wrestling Match at San Francisco

San Francisco, Jan. 16.—Man Mountain Dean, Norcross, Ga., did the expected in yesterday evening's Dreamland Auditorium wrestling matches and not so heavily on Cy Williams's stomach he won the third fall by default after the first two were split.

Williams, Tallahassee, Fla., treated Dean roughly to win the first fall in two and one-half minutes, but Dean came back to floor Williams with a body slam. Then he fell on his opponent, cracking the latter's rib. Several strong men bore Williams away in dramatic fashion. Weights were: Dean 317, Williams 215.

Ted Cox Lodi, Calif., caused a near riot when he lost on a foul to Joe Malcewicz, Utica, N.Y. He threw a press telephone across the ring, fought spectators and finally was handcuffed by two policemen.

SHAKE-UP IN POLO RANKINGS

Tommy Hitchcock Loses Ten-goal Rating for First Time in Fourteen Years

New York, Jan. 16—The United States Polo Association yesterday ratified a drastic shake-up in the National Handicap list, including the removal of Thomas Hitchcock Jr., the famous international, from the maximum ten-goal rating for the first time in fourteen years.

List K. O. Rugby; Tour Is Doubtful

Local Union Swings Through Entire Gamut of Oval Ball Game Here; Schedule Cowichan Cup Openers Saturday; Southern Trip Still in Air

Officials of Victoria's Rugby Union yesterday evening swung through the complete gamut of the oval ball game as it affects Victoria.

They announced opening dates for the Howard Bennett Cup play between Victoria and Oak Bay High School, reaffirmed first round dates in the Cowichan Cup series for Saturday, set a workout schedule for the local McKechnie Cup squad next week, reviewed the shaky arrangements for a British Columbia tour of California in February, and wound up with the announcement New Zealand All-Blacks might play here next year.

Weather permitting, Fifth Brigade will meet the James Bay Athletic Association at Macdonald Park Saturday. At the same time Canadian Scottish will play the Garrison at Work Point Barracks with C. E. Ley in charge as the other half of the knockout series. Both games will start at 3 o'clock.

In the intermediate league, Wanderers Whites will tackle Canadian Scottish at Oak Bay A grounds, with S. James handling the whistle, while Wanderers Blues oppose Victoria College at Oak Bay B grounds, under W. Bourman, in what is expected to be one of the features of the second division half play. As the third attraction in that section, Fifth Brigade will take the field against the Garrison at the Canteen Grounds, with Bill Derbyshire in charge. Like the senior fixtures, all games will start at 3 o'clock.

TOUR SITUATION

The proposed California tour, glittering reward for the best players in the province this year, appeared slightly tarnished following information to the effect arrangements for the game series in the south had run onto the old financial reef.

Late yesterday afternoon a dispatch was received here from Vancouver stating the tour would probably be cancelled unless the provincial union and the Northern California Rugby Union could reach a more satisfactory financial arrangement.

Secretary H. J. Ketchen of the B.C. Union had received a letter from the California body asking a guarantee of $1,500 to bring a California side here next Christmas. The Vancouver Rugby Union felt such a guarantee was impossible and refusal might mean cancellation of the impending southern tour, the Vancouver dispatch said, adding the Vancouver group had indicated the $2,000 guaranteed by California for the tour was insufficient, and a further $500 guarantee might be required.

LOCAL VIEWS

The Victoria Union agreed with Vancouver on the impossibility of guaranteeing the Californians $1,500 for a return engagement here next season, feeling that the weather around Christmas, the time proposed for the Californians' visit, was too undecided to ensure a gate.

The locals did, however, agree to accepting a $2,000 guarantee from California for the sending of a team south. They would help make up the necessary difference by collecting $10 each from the players chosen for the trip.

Should the arrangements go through, the schedule would be altered to have the provincial team leave for the south on February 8. Second of January 16.

On Friday afternoon at 2.15 o'clock the Victoria and Oak Bay High School squads are scheduled to clash in the first game of the Howard Bennett Cup competition at Victoria High School grounds. The teams are reported to be very good, and should put up an exceptionally interesting game.

REF WORKOUTS

The union also learned there was a possibility New Zealand's All-Blacks might be seen in action here if they returned to their homes through this port following their tour of Great Britain next season.

Victoria's rep rugger will hold workouts on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week at 7 o'clock in the Athletic Park, it was announced by Rob McInnes, a member of the selection committee. Coach Ernie Butterworth will put the boys through their paces in several trick plays and generally condition them.

Some changes may be made in the team which tackled and beat Varsity last Saturday. A switch may be made in one of the wing three-quarter berths, and some alterations may be made in the scrum.

Australia Wants B.C. Boxla Team

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 16.—The Australian Lacrosse Council has decided to approach the British Columbia Lacrosse Association to ascertain whether a Canadian lacrosse team could visit Australia for an exhibition tour in the near future.

Vancouver, Jan. 16.—Officials here of the Canadian and British Columbia Amateur Lacrosse Association Monday evening decided to comment on the possibility of a Canadian team touring Australia, as suggested in a Melbourne dispatch.

"Until we receive a definite proposal we can't say anything about it," President Dan McKenzie, of the C.A.L.A., at New Westminster, said.

The Motor-Coach Reaches Its 100th Birthday

In November, 1834, the first motor-vehicle to convey paying passengers between two points inaugurated a regular service between London and Stratford.

This coach, named "The Infant," built by Walter Hancock, was propelled by steam and carried twelve passengers at the stupendous speed of 14 miles per hour along the public highway — without benefit of pneumatic tyres.

The motor-coach has come a long way since 1834—and now offers comforts and convenience of service that are unsurpassed by any other forms of transportation.

Support For Gold Currencies Firms New York Market

Canadian Press

New York, Jan. 16.—The stock market quietly resumed its advance to-day, an order was restored to foreign exchange dealings and fears of a deflationary rise in the dollar were stilled. Non-ferrous metals led the recovery at the start, but leadership shifted later to industrial specialties. The final tone was firm. Transfers were only about 700,000 shares.

In the Canadian list, McIntyre, International Nickel and Canadian Pacific were steady to slightly higher. In the curb, Lake Shore and Hiram Walker both put up around a point each. Dominion Government bonds ruled inactive. Canadian funds were up 1-32 of a cent at 100.00 cents.

Gold currencies did not retain all of yesterday's late recovery, but official support appeared to have changed the late resulting from withdrawal of usual buyers pending the Supreme Court decision on gold. The bond market was steady, with secondary rails generally firm. Cotton steadied after an early sag, and wheat and corn recovered part of yesterday's losses.

Issues closing about 2 points higher included American Tobacco B, Liggett and Myers B, Union Pacific and Howe Sound. A few specialties developed buoyancy.

Twenty rails, 34.77, up 0.63.
Forty bonds, 96.00, unchanged.

U.B.C. TO HAVE ACTING DEAN

University Board of Governors to Consider Proposal

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 16.—Recommendation of an acting dean to substitute for Dean R. W. Brock, recently appointed chairman of the Vancouver Harbor Board, will be considered at a meeting of the board of governors of the University of British Columbia on January 29.

Professor J. M. Turnbull, head of the Department of Mining and Metallurgy, has served as acting dean on a number of previous occasions when Dean Brock has been absent. The choice, however, will be left in the hands of President L. S. Klinck.

A letter from Dean Brock offering part time services without salary will be considered.

The board also nominated Dr. R. E. McKechnie, chancellor of the university, to attend a meeting called by Mayor O. O. McGeer for January 24, to consider a public works programme.

SETTLEMENT PLAN DEBATED

But Ottawa Will Not Offer Financial Aid to Farm Groups From Britain

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 16. — No objections would be raised in Canada to any scheme of British migration which was properly financed and which did not involve any financial outlay or guarantee on the part of the Dominion Government, it was learned to-day. Officials of the immigration department had not seen the settlement plan outlined by Baron Rodney of Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., before the British Empire League in London yesterday evening.

Reports said it contemplated establishment of farming communities in Canada where families from the United Kingdom could settle. The plan, according to information here, is similar to the scheme of General Hornby of Lethbridge, which was widely discussed some little time ago.

NO FINANCIAL AID

For several years the policy of the Government of Canada has been to place no obstacles in the way of bona-fide agricultural settlers from the British Isles who have sufficient financial support to give them a reasonable chance of remaining independent.

Canada, however, offers no financial aid to prospective settlers, and unless the present policy is changed would not participate in any migration undertaking.

One view entertained in government circles is that this country has already contributed much towards the success of prospective immigrants by spending large sums in building railways and other public utilities. The Dominion Government also has a staff of experienced men in the land settlement branch whose advice and supervision could be placed at the disposal of any organized body of immigrants who might come.

MINE SHARES IMPROVEMENT

Canadian Press

Toronto, Jan. 16. — The mining section of the Toronto Exchange was able to effect a partial recovery from Tuesday's decline. Base metal and silver issues gave up ground for the day on small turnover.

Noranda rose $1 to $52.25. Small advances were held by Eldorado, Bear Exploration and Siptuing.

MONTREAL HEARS C.C.F. LEADER

Canadian Press

Montreal, Jan. 16.—The C.C.F. party would remain adamant in its stand that capitalism with the profit motive must go, J. S. Woodsworth, M.P. for Winnipeg North Centre and leader of the party, said here yesterday evening at a meeting sponsored by C.C.F. clubs of Montreal.

Complimenting Premier R. B. Bennett for going directly to the people in his recent series of addresses and declaring the C.C.F. would endorse proposed reform measures when and if they were brought up in Parliament, Mr. Woodsworth said the essential difference between the C.C.F. platform and the present and proposed policy of the government was that in his opinion the Premier was dividing the people into a working class and an owning class and that Mr. Bennett's "refusal" to tax the owning class more severely was what the C.C.F. took exception to.

Economies Urged By Quebec M.P.P.

Canadian Press

Quebec, Jan. 16.—Abolition of Spencerwood, official residence of the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, of the Legislative Council (upper house), and of the Department of Municipal Affairs headed by Premier L. A. Taschereau, was recommended yesterday by J. Oscar Drouin, Liberal, Quebec East, in the Quebec Legislative Assembly. Mr. Drouin, speaking during debate on the address in reply to the speech from the Throne, also urged old age pensions, unemployment insurance and a complete remodelling of the province's budgetary structure.

Spencerwood, he said, filled no need in the present scheme of things, and its upkeep was a serious drain on the province's finances. He did not believe the position of Lieutenant-Governor should be abolished.

Wheat Prices Pare Yesterday's Losses On Winnipeg Board

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Jan. 16.—The May future recovered most of yesterday's losses on the Winnipeg grain exchange to-day, backing up strong support, but July was late limited. May closed 1½ cents high, and July was up ½ cent.

May at one time recovered to its maximum close, a gain of 1½ cents, but fell back in a pre-closing flurry. July fluctuated with a ⅝ price range to close at 31½ cents, ½ cent above its "pegged" price. May's close of 81½ cents was 1½ cents above its minimum.

Depression which had overhung the market for the past two days lifted to-day and a more confident feeling prevailed. The deluge of selling which on Monday and Tuesday swept prices down for net losses of 3¾ cents dwindled to a trickle.

Trading said the reassurance given by John I. McFarland, head of the government price-stabilizing agency, that the "peg" would not be withdrawn from the Winnipeg market was undoubtedly a factor in to-day's recovery.

Chicago wheat prices were about a cent higher. Liverpool, after early ¼d decline, closed only ⅛ to ¼d lower.

SASKATOON JUDGE PASSES AWAY

Saskatoon, Jan. 16.—Judge E. A. C. McLorg of Saskatoon died yesterday afternoon at Los Angeles, according to word received here.

District court judge in Saskatoon since 1907, he had acquired a high reputation as a jurist, and was highly respected in the city as patron of arts and letters. His passing took place at the home of a sister in Los Angeles, where he went for a visit in November. He was seventy-three.

Judge McLorg is survived by three sons, all members of the legal profession: Edward in Vancouver, Frank in Saskatoon and Arthur. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Dupen of Los Angeles and Mrs. Currie of Minneapolis.

Judge McLorg spent more than fifty years on the prairie, and the story of his career makes a colorful page in the history of the new country. Born in Gloucestershire, the son of an English church dignitary, he came to Canada in 1883.

BRUNDAGE GETS SERVICE AWARD

New York, Jan. 16.—Avery Brundage, Chicago, president of the United States Olympic Association, and for six years president of the American Athletic Union, yesterday evening was announced as the recipient of the James E. Sullivan Service Trophy for 1934.

The trophy corresponds to an award for amateur sports executives, to the medal awarded annually since 1930 to the year's outstanding amateur athlete. William B. Bonthron, Princeton, recently was voted the Sullivan medal for 1934.

BOND MARKET IS INACTIVE

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 16.—Position of the bond market was not materially changed by the comparatively small volume of dealings conducted during the first half of the session to-day.

Certain of the secondary classifications which encountered heavy selling yesterday were permitted to steady under a marked shrinkage in offerings. Prime issues held to a small range.

Most obligations in the European group displayed a better tone to-day.

DOLLAR GAINS ON EXCHANGE

ering the situation, especially confirmed reports regarding revaluation.

LEADERS ASSEMBLE

Washington, Jan. 16.—Amid anxious speculation as to what the United States Supreme Court would say about the New Deal experiment to raise prices by lowering the gold value of the U.S. dollar, inflationists and expansionists gathered to-day to seek accord on some plan to make the currency still cheaper.

The "gold clause" cases were in every mind as several organizations, most of them advocates of various schools of inflation, prepared to meet with legislators at the call of Senator Thomas, Oklahoma Democrat.

More and cheaper dollars to restore the 1926 price level was the aid announced by Thomas. Though both he and Senator Wheeler, Montana Democrat, predicted a "definite programme of action," the latter added that all plans for monetary legislation depended on whether the Supreme Court ruled that gold clause securities must be paid in the pre-New Deal dollar or the present one.

Coming to the conference, Thomas said, were representatives of farm organizations, war veterans, Rev. Father Coughlin's National League for Social Justice, the Townsend Money Legion, the Committee for the Nation, the Western States Silver Conference, the Depositors' Committee, the Society of Martians and others.

INDUSTRIALS RULE LOWER

Canadian Press

Toronto, Jan. 16. — Apart from a firm front in liquor and bank shares, the industrial section of the Toronto Exchange was undecided about its movements to-day. Oils had more losses than gains. Stocks were also on the down side. Several new highs for the year were showing in the financial institutions.

Industrial Alcohol "A" closed at 9¾ for a net gain of ¾. Lower prices ruled for Building Products, Gypsum and Canada Bread.

WOULD REVIEW BOND SCHEMES

H. Anscomb, M.P.P., Suggests Five-year Period for Municipal Compromises

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 16.—Herbert Anscomb, M.P.P. for Victoria, blamed the British Columbia Government for "this talk of repudiating municipal bonds" in an address to a branch of the Vancouver Conservative Association.

"If the provincial government had not unloaded social services on the municipalities, this talk of repudiating municipal bonds would never have been raised," he said.

"As a result, having succeeded in breaking down Mr. Landowner, you have now decided to do the same for Mr. Bondholder, who in the first place made your investment possible and in most cases worth while. Such a course will not solve the problem."

YEARLY SAVINGS

Mr. Anscomb declared the bondholder should have the assurance during the life of the bond that council will not be extravagant, and will save something each year to pay him back.

In cases where municipalities wish to make compromise agreements with bondholders regarding repayment, he said he thought provision should be made for review in a five-year period. He said there should be the right to appeal to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council for inquiry to ascertain if a municipality is in a position to pick up deferred payments of interest.

SEATTLE DEATH IS INVESTIGATED

Woman and Man Held by Police as Slaying Inquired Into

Associated Press

Seattle, Jan. 16.—The Russian Battalion of Death, a geologist's pickaxe, a gallon of whisky, a portable sewing machine, these were elements police found in the brutal slaying of Otto Johanson to-day as they arrested two persons.

Detective Capt. Ernest Toris of the homicide squad said Johanson was hacked and slashed to death shortly after midnight after a drinking orgy in his shack on the tide flats of the Duwamish River.

He arrested Mary Kelly, forty-three, Johanson's housekeeper, and Dick Brown, another squatter on the tide flats, holding them on open charges.

Mrs. Kelly, who reported the slaying, said she was formerly a captain in the famous Russian Battalion of Death, a legion of Amazons who fought the Germans in the World War, each woman carrying a vial of poison to take rather than suffer capture.

Toris said the woman related she and Johanson had started drinking yesterday evening with Brown and another man.

Brown brought the liquor to the shack, she said, but police did not name the man she accused as the slayer.

Patrolmen arrested her as drunk, and she said she was on the way to find a telephone to report the murder of her "husband." She said she had lived in the shack eighteen months.

The short, sturdy Mrs. Kelly, said by police who arrested her to be as strong as the average man, related she had lived in the United States twelve years, having come here from Vladivostok, Siberia. She and Johanson, the forty-six-year-old Norwegian laborer, had been on state relief.

The wired drums went on. Then at a signal from Korbah the drums ceased. The melee ceased heading upon the thing which their terrible blows had reduced to a mass of bloody pulp. They now turned their attention to devouring their late enemy. The mightiest upon obtained the choicest morsels.

Tarzan with his sharp knife slashed off a more generous portion than he hoped for. Old Tublat spied Tarzan with the prize and wicked gleams of hate shot from his little eyes. Tarzan saw the great beast's purpose and leaped nimbly away—Tublat, however, close upon his heels.

Swiftly he sprang. Gaining a lower limb, he climbed rapidly, followed closely by Tublat. Up he went to the highest branches, where his pursuer dared not follow. There he perched, hurling taunts and insults at the raging, foaming beast fifty feet below him. And then Tublat went mad!

With horrifying screams and roars, he rushed to the ground among the females and young, sinking his great fangs into a dozen they touched. Tarzan witnessed the whole mad massacre of rage. Now he saw Tublat dash toward Kala, his foster-mother. Tarzan dropped swiftly and faced the infuriated brute.

With a roar of triumph, Tublat leaped. Tarzan plunged a keen hunting knife a dozen times into him. The ape rolled to the ground. Tarzan, his foot upon the body of the mighty beast, took his head with the knife and, standing erect, announced unto the three ape men of Kulonga.

Will People Mourn Your Death

Author of "Explains Their Opposition to Mankind"

WILL THOSE with whom you live be glad when you are dead? Will your wife draw her crape veil a little lower over her face to hide the relief in her eyes that her long term of penal servitude to a hard taskmaster is ended? Will your husband bear up nobly under the affliction of being relieved of a nagging wife who has made his life a torment to him for thirty years?

Will your children draw their first free breath at your funeral, knowing they will not have to put up any longer with your petty tyrannies? Will the sons and daughters you have been miserly to and whom you have let struggle along without any of the help you might have given them think only of their inheritance, not of you, when you are gone?

These are brutal questions, but they are questions that we might all put to ourselves, and the answers, if we had the courage to face the truth, might well make many of us stop and think and alter our conduct. Human vanity makes us take it for granted that those who are bound to us by ties of blood and association will grieve for us when we have passed on, and find the world a sadder place in which to live when we have left it. But this is not necessarily the case. We have to earn the right to be mourned. We must have paid for every tear that is shed for us with years of love and tenderness and kindness. Death ends sorrow as often as it brings it.

I often think of a funeral which I once attended. A man who had been lazy and no-account and who had made his wife toil to support him, who had even taken the money she made to spend upon other women, and who had been surly and abusive to her, had died. For forty years this poor domestic martyr had labored like a galley slave for him and borne his insults, and put up with his tempers without complaint, and there was not one of us who were her friends who was hypocritical enough to offer her the conventional words of condolence. We merely patted her on the back and to each other said: "Thank God she is delivered at last. Perhaps she can now have a few years of happiness."

We think of all the unhappily married people as rushing to the divorce courts. This is a mistake. A very small percentage of the mismated separate. The remainder go on dragging their bails and chains through weary years, making of their marriage a heroic endurance record of patient suffering that nothing can end except death. They are nailed to their cross by a sense of duty, by the necessities of little children, by the fear of scandal, often in the woman's case by sheer helplessness, and nothing but Divine hands can take them down from it.

And often and often the conduct of a widow or a widower throws a grim and tragic and pathetic light upon a marriage that has outwardly seemed contented. As I write, a picture arises before me of an elderly woman, the widow of a rich and stingy man, who used almost the first of her insurance money in buying herself a wristwatch of which she was foolishly proud.

"All of my life I've wanted a watch," she said, "but Mr. X. did not believe in spending any money foolishly." And then she added naively: "I never had any money that I could spend as I pleased before, and it seems so wonderful."

We have all laughed at the widowers who seemed to lose their heads when they lost their wives, and who blossomed out, even before they got their dear Marta's headstones erected, in Glossy Kellogg Hat clothes and sports roadsters and who hit a pace that left even the boys far behind. But surely we should weep instead of smile, if we realized that these middle-aged men's levity was the reaction from being ground down by narrow-minded, henny wives who never let them call their souls their own, who gave them less liberty than a prisoner locked up in a cell, and who nagged the very life out of them. Even the stoidest must feel like making whoopee when they escape the yoke and the thumbscrews.

Nothing is more common than to hear a man or woman say: "Of course I can't do thus and so while Father is alive, but when he dies I shall do it." Or: "I can't make any changes in our way of living while Mother is with us, but when she goes I'll do so and so." They are giving up the desires, the happiness, perhaps the prosperity of the best years of their lives to the whims and prejudices of a cranky old man or woman who has got set in his or her ways and worthless every one to them.

One wonders that these parents never realize that their children are looking forward to their deaths as a slave does to the day of emancipation. And one wonders, too, that the stingy parents who never divide with their children, who never give them a dollar until death relaxes their clutch on their moneybags, do not know that their sons and daughters will inevitably regard father's and mother's passing as a blessing instead of a misfortune.

So we may well ask ourselves: Will people be glad or sorry when we pass away? It is the test of how we have lived.

Uncle Wiggily's Trick Hat

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily Longears was a very stylish rabbit gentleman. One of the stylish things about him was his often wore a tall silk hat like a piece of stove pipe. Only, of course, Uncle Wiggily's hat wasn't made of iron, which is what a stove pipe is made of. The hat was of silk and cloth and looked very smart on the rabbit gentleman.

One day then Uncle Wiggily had been out after adventures, without finding any, so came home to his hollow stump bungalow.

"Why, Wiggy!" exclaimed his wife as she turned his pink nose. "What is the matter with your tall silk hat? There's a dent in one side and there's a crack in the top and some white stuff on the brim. What is that white stuff?"

"That's snow," said Uncle Wiggily dashing the white stuff off his hat before bringing his bungalow so he didn't track in the snow Nurse Mouse's floors on.

"How did snow get on your tall silk hat?" asked the rabbit lady. "It isn't snowing now, though it did the night you and Baby Bunny had to crawl into the tree tops to get away from the storm. Oh, how frightened we were when you didn't come home until morning!"

IN A BROW BRUFF.

"Yes, that was an adventure," said the rabbit gentleman. "But the way snow got on my hat now, though, is just another adventure that my hat did into a snow drift."

"But did you happen to hit your hat against a tree?"

"I didn't hit it hard at all, my dear; it was knocked off."

"What knocked it off?"

"A snowball," said Uncle Wiggily.

"You don't mean," said the rabbit lady, "that a snowball off of a cyclone popped up and knocked off your hat."

"Oh, no, it didn't happen that way," said Uncle Wiggily. "The snowball that knocked off my hat was thrown by a boy dog."

"Not Jackie or Pookie Bow Wow?" exclaimed Mrs. Longears.

"Oh, no, not any of the good puppy boys," said Uncle Wiggily. "The snowball was thrown by a bad dog named Woofus Howlitt. I'm sure it was I, and not wearing my hat, and he Woofus shouldn't throw snowballs and knock it off. I am getting tired of it and I am going to put a stop to it. Woofus Howlitt shall not knock my hat off again!"

"But are you going to stop him?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"I am going to make a trick hat," said Uncle Wiggily.

That night and part of next morning Uncle Wiggily worked at making his trick hat that couldn't be knocked off by a snowball thrown by Woofus Howlitt.

WEARING TRICK HAT

In the afternoon, when he knew the bad dog was out in his yard, Uncle Wiggily put on his trick hat, hopped down the woodland path where most often his hat had been knocked off before.

"My! How warm that heavy rubber band makes Uncle Wiggily's head," he said, and he took off his hat and hung it on a bush while he hopped along. "Wish my hat would not hop!"

Uncle Wiggily drew a hard breath. It hit Uncle Wiggily's tall silk hat—dead hit it, the rabbit thought. He ran back to the bush, but Woofus had taken the hat off and into a tree. The rascal did hit the rubber hat off his head, but all at once, as Uncle Wiggily's paw touched it, that hat jumped off down and hid itself on the rabbit's head.

"Bow Wow!" barked Woofus Howlitt. Uncle Wiggily paused and looked at the dog. "Bow Wow!" Woofus barked again. "Bow Wow!" Uncle Wiggily felt his hat jump off his head a little way and he felt it go back. Then he knew what Woofus was up to. The bad dog was hiding his snowy forest, concealed with the three ape men of Kulonga.

he ran away, he never threw any more snowballs at Uncle Wiggily's hat.

"My, what bad weather!" he said. He had fastened a strong rubber cord to his hat and put the rubber cord under his chin. So each time a snowball knocked the hat off, the rubber pulled it back. Ha! Ha!

And if the apple pie will please not run away from the piece of cheese I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's feeding the birds.

Byrd Explorers In Dangerous Position

Men and Dogs of Party, Trekking Across Ice, Have Narrow Escape From Sixty-foot Crevasse; Dogs, Menand Sleds Drop Out of Sight

Little America, Antarctica, Jan. 16.—Some 350 nautical miles advanced on their journey to the Queen Maude Range, the three men and dog teams of the geological party which returned yesterday narrowly escaped disaster in a sixty-foot crevasse, they revealed to-day.

Quinn A. Blackburn of Washington, leader of the party which reached a point within 180 miles of the Pole itself, said they struck a series of dangerous crevasses after battling sixty miles an hour winds, and all but lost men, dogs and sledges in the unplumbed depths of polar ice.

"We reached the 350-mile beacon," Blackburn said. "East of us the barrier rose gradually. We caught sight of pressure ridges and crevasses just ahead. They looked quite bad and we were persuaded to rope the sledges together as a safety measure.

"A mile beyond the beacon we struck the first of the crevasses. They were mostly blind although we saw a number of deep open pits. Russell's sledge went in first (radio operator Richard Russell of Boston). The trailer dropped in sideways after the lead sledge had safely passed. It took an hour and a half to dig it out.

"A mile farther on Paine (geologist Stuart Paine of Durham, N.H.) was shocked to see his leader and six dogs drop out of sight in front of him. Jack, his leader, had broken through a shallow bridge and dragged the others after him before Paine could brake the sledge.

DOGS IN DANGER

"The dogs hung in their harness down a sheer wall. We let Paine down on a line and he passed a second one around the dogs one by one and we hauled them to the surface."

Paine took up the story at this point:

"After that," he said "the going seemed clear. A line ran from my trailer to Quinn's lead dog and a second line from his trailer to Russell's leader.

"Suddenly I felt a shock on the gee pole. Before I realized what it meant I noticed with mild wonder that my dogs seemed to be digging furiously, but instead of going forward were actually being pulled backwards.

"Instinctively I grabbed a pole and jammed it into the snow behind my sled. Out of the corner of my eye I noticed Russell doing the same thing. The dogs were straining furiously, eared to bark.

"Blackburn's two sledges had disappeared, and there was Quinn scrambling on his stomach from the edge of a big hole that had suddenly opened up under his feet.

"When we got organized we found that Blackburn's sledges hung straight down in a sixty-foot crevasse. Having the teams roped together was the only thing that saved them from disappearing altogether. Among them were our meteorological instruments, geological gear, and a good deal of the fuel and dog food.

"Blackburn and Russell went down on a line and passed most of the cargo up on another line. When the load was sufficiently lightened we were able to haul the sledges to the surface. It took us seven hours to do it. The wind never let up. It was bitter work."

On December 27 the party found a cabin built in 1929 by Dr. Laurence M. Gould of the first Byrd expedition, in which had been placed a cereal box with a note signed by him and his party, saying they were time to set foot in the area and claiming it in the name of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd "as a part of Marie Byrd Land, a dependency or possession of the United States."

New York, Jan. 16.—The Italian liner Vulcania will sail with 400 passengers to-morrow for the Mediterranean, bidding farewell to New York until October 1. The vessel will enter the drydock at Trieste for complete renovation after calling at Lisbon, Gibraltar, Algiers, Naples, Palermo, Patras and Regusa.

The ship's Diesel engines will be replaced by a Flat internal combustion power plant, which is designed to increase her speed. The domes of her first-class public rooms will be removed and her superstructure rebuilt to provide space for a long sports and sun deck. A general remodeling of cabin accommodations also will be undertaken.

The Saturnia, sister ship of the Vulcania, will enter drydock for similar rebuilding in October and in the eighteenth-month period required to complete the work on the two vessels the Rosna will be operated in the New York-Trieste service. The Conte Grande will be operated in addition during the summer.

THREE LINERS CRUISE WORLD

Resolute and Franconia Sail From New York Same Day on Voyages Around World

New York, Jan. 16.—Following the Canadian liner Empress of Britain around the world, the German flagship Resolute sailed from here Saturday at noon with a large and distinguished passenger list. She will be absent from New York until May.

Saturday also saw the departure of the third world cruising liner of the week, the Franconia of the Cunard-White Star Lines. She is taking a different route around the world and will visit ports and countries in the Southern Hemisphere.

After visiting Madeira, many ports on the Mediterranean, India, Siam, Bali, Manila, China and Japan, the Resolute will reach America again at San Francisco on May 9, traveling from there through the Panama Canal, via Havana to finish her cruise at New York May 28.

SOUTHERN ROUTE

The Franconia left New York and proceeded to Jamaica, arriving there this morning. She will pass through the Panama Canal on Friday and will then go to Los Angeles before sailing for Hawaii, the Society Islands, the Cook Islands, the Samoan and Fiji Islands, en route to New Zealand and Australia. Then she will proceed to New Guinea, the Island of Bali, Java, the Straits Settlements and Malay, India, South Africa, South America, Barbados and New York, where she will finish her cruise May 31.

The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia will arrive here to-morrow in preparation for her sailing on Friday on a three months' cruise to the Mediterranean, South Africa, South America and the West Indies. A large list of passengers has been booked for this cruise.

Funchal, Madeira, Jan. 16.—Making her first port-of-call on her fourth annual world voyage, the big White Canadian liner Empress of Britain arrived here this afternoon from New York. She will proceed to-morrow to Gibraltar and Rosia Bay.

Passengers came ashore immediately the liner docked and started seeing the sights of this picturesque town.

German Cruisers Strong and Swift

London, Jan. 16.—Germany's new 10,000-ton Deutschland type cruisers are so powerfully armed that no cruiser could stand up to them, and so fast no existing battleship could bring action against them, according Brassey's Naval and Shipping Annual, for 1935, published here to-day.

WATERSPOUTS OFF HONOLULU

Ms. Tatsuta Maru Passes Close to Strange Phenomena of Sea

Honolulu, Jan. 16.—Three waterspouts, the sea's strangest sight, danced nearly half an hour yesterday off Waikiki. One passed close to the liner Tatsuta Maru, arriving from San Francisco.

The first was seen about 9.10 a.m., when a whirling black finger of cloud and water reached down to the sea off Diamond Head. Scarcely had it dissolved when a second formed farther to sea. It lasted about eight minutes. A third waterspout, directly off Waikiki, appeared ten minutes later.

J. F. Voorhees, United States weather observer, who saw them, estimated that each was about 150 feet in diameter.

The spouts were dropped from a mass of low, black clouds hanging over the water like a heavy drift of smoke. In each instance their appearance was sudden. A line of black, shaped like Cornucopia's Horn of Plenty, curved down toward the water, causing a tremendous excitation of water which leaped and bubbled.

The spouts were skirted by the Tatsuta Maru and three submarines on manoeuvres. A pair of airplanes circled in the sky watching, but careful to keep out of the path of the strange phenomena.
